BUDDHADEB BHATTACHARYA DEPARTS AT 80, WAS BENGAL CM FOR 11 YEARS

The Communist stalwart passed away on Thursday morning at the age of 80 in Kolkata. He was suffering from age-related ailments

A COMMUNIST WHO BACKED BIG INDUSTRIES

Bhattacharya, a leader of the Communist Party of India (Marxist), was known for his efforts to bring industrialisation to the state to create jobs. He invited big companies to come to West Bengal and set up factories there. However, protests broke out over land acquisition. Police firing on protesters in Nandigram in 2007 eroded the Left Front's support and it lost power in 2011

REMEMBERED FOR HIS PRAGMATIC APPROACH

44 amendments proposed in the legislation introduced in LS; INDIA bloc questions inclusion of non-Muslims in boards

WAQF BILL GOES TO JPC AFTER OPPN LABELS IT AS DRACONIAN

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

FACING stiff opposition from the united INDIA bloc, the government referred the contentious Waqf (Amendment) Bill to a joint parliamentary panel (JPC) for scrutiny after it was introduced in the Lok Sabha on Thursday.

The House witnessed a two-hour long heated debate with minority affairs minister Kiran Rijiju asserting that the proposed legislation is in tune with the recommendations of the Sachar Committee and the JPC instituted by the previous Congress governments, while the Opposition dubbed it as anti-Muslim, anti-Constitution and malicious.

From giving the Centre the power to frame rules to providing representation for women to the inclusion of two non-Muslim members in Waqf boards and a separate Board of Auqaf for Boharas and Aghakhanis, the government proposed 44 amendments to the Waqf Act 1995.

Rijiju said the Waqf Act of 1995 did not serve its purpose and the amendments were necessitated as the Congress could not achieve the reform it should have. He added that the government has done extensive consultations with various stakeholders over the last 10 years to bring in the changes. "With this bill, there is no interference in the freedom of any religious body....It has been brought to give rights to those who never got them."

Leading the Opposition offensive, Congress MP K C Venugopal accused the government of violating the right to freedom of religion and argued that the legislation was brought with an eye on the upcoming assembly polls in Maharashtra and Haryana.

He said the government wants to induct non-Muslims in the governing body of state Waqf boards and the Central Waqf Council through the amendments. "When the committee to build the Ram temple was constituted, were non-Hindus part of it?" he said.

Accusing the government of attempting to appease BJP's hardcore supporters, SP chief Akhilesh Yadav said, "What is the point of including non-Muslims in Waqf boards when this is not done in other religious bodies?"

Rijiju said in the earlier law, there was no provision to challenge or review the order or judgment of the tribunal. Now, a provision has been made for verdicts to be challenged in higher courts. He claimed that many leaders in the Opposition had privately told him that state Waqf boards had turned into a mafia. "I won't take their names and destroy their careers," Rijiju said.

NDA ALLIES ON THE SAME PAGE

NDA allies JD(U), TDP, Shiv Sena and LJP backed the bill saying it was aimed at bringing transparency. JD (U)'s Lalan Singh said, "How is the bill anti-Muslim?" Chirag too was on the same page. However, YSRCP MPs opposed it

ENEMIES OF MUSLIMS: OWAISI

Fiercely opposing the bill, AIMIM chief Asaduddin Owaisi said it violates Articles 14, 15, and 25 of the Constitution. "You are enemies of Muslims and this bill is evidence of that," he charged

THIS ONE MEANS MORE

It was emotional, it was epochal. But above everything, it was cathartic. The pall of gloom that descended over India finally cleared on Thursday for some cheer. If it was wrestling that broke Indian hearts, it was hockey that lifted it. The azure astro turf gave India a fourth medal at the Paris Olympic Games, a week after Swapnil Kusale had won the third. After everything that had happened over the past couple of days, that bronze was worth its weight in gold.

That last-minute goal at the end of the second quarter spurred the team on. They wanted to win for P R Sreejesh, the trusted custodian of India's fortunes and one of the greatest goalkeepers of his generation, who was playing his final game. They celebrated and will continue to do so until late at night. Soaking in the summer Parisian sun, the XI rose together one last time. As he did three years ago against Germany in Tokyo to help the team win their first Olympic medal after 41 years, Sreejesh again made the biggest saves of his life in dying seconds as India win the bronze medal.

The Yves du Manoir Stadium is part of Paris's suburbian folklore. It is part of sporting history too. This is the only stadium that hosted events in the 1924 Paris Olympics, including athletics, the opening and closing ceremonies. This was where Paavo Nurmi, the legendary Flying Finn, won four gold. The stadium was named after Yves du Manoir, a promising rugby player, who died in a plane crash at the age of 23, and was refurbished and rebuilt for hockey. It does have an emotional connection.

On Thursday, it added a new fable to its annals. The story of India's second bronze in successive Olympics. For the ordinary French people, it may have looked like just another medal. But for all those back home in India, this medal means more than just a bronze.

Gadag farmers dump tomatoes on roads as prices crash

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @ Gadag

IRATE farmers dumped tomatoes on roads leading to the wholesale market at Lakshmeshwar in Gadag district on Thursday, after traders informed them that prices had crashed to Rs 2 a kg.

Many farmers from Lakshmeshwar, Shirahatti and nearby villages brought tomatoes to the market in the morning, hoping for remunerative prices. But they were shocked when traders told them that the prices for a crate of tomatoes hovered between Rs 20 and Rs 30. A crate holds 25 kg of tomatoes.

Enraged, the farmers dumped their produce on the road and returned home. Tomatoes were sold for Rs 30 a kg last week and prices started crashing because of rain. Fearing that they would lose their crop if the rain continues, many started bringing tomatoes to the wholesale market from Wednesday.

According to sources, the traders at the wholesale market refused to buy tomatoes because of their poor quality, owing to incessant rain across Gadag district. Even at the wholesale markets in Gadag and other towns, prices of tomatoes have crashed to Rs 3-5 a kg. Farmers have stopped bringing their produce to the Gadag market as the money they get would not even help them meet their transport cost.

RBI holds rates for ninth time in a row

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

REITERATING the resolve to tame inflation and bring it down to the desired target for a sustainable, durable period, the six-member Monetary Policy Committee (MPC), chaired by Reserve Bank Governor Shaktikanta Das voted to leave the key policy rates unchanged at 6.5% and decided to continue to suck out excess liquidity from the system for the ninth consecutive time.

The announcement did not spook the stock markets as nobody was expecting a rate cut. However, the hawkish undertone did make the market nervous. This had the indices falling by three-fourths of a percentage points.

The decisions were taken after a 4:2 vote at the 50th meeting of the rate setting panel — Monetary Policy Committee — since its inception in September 2016. Das said that the flexible inflation targeting framework will soon complete eight years and is up for review next month.

Like in the past two reviews, the two external members Ashima Goyal and Jayanth R Varma voted to reduce the policy repo rate by 25 bps and also for changing the stance from withdrawal of accommodation to neutral.

The MPC has also decided to remain focused on withdrawal of accommodation to ensure that "inflation progressively aligns to the target, while supporting growth. P13

New rules to fill posts of principal rile lecturers of govt degree colleges

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

MANY government degree colleges in the state are without full-term principals and the Department of Collegiate Education has initiated action to fill the vacant posts through a written test.

This move has become a cause for concern among lecturers of government colleges. They are against the move as it will allow lecturers of private institutions to become principals of their colleges.

In Karnataka, there are 430 government degree colleges that offer BA, BCom, BSc and other courses. Until 2009, principals were appointed based on promotions and senior-most lecturers would become principals. Those promoted as principals during this period retired by 2013. The government stopped promoting senior lecturers as principals in its colleges after 2013.

In 2018, a notification was issued by the Department of Collegiate Education, framing new recruitment rules to fill vacant posts of principal in 310 colleges.

As per the new rules, vacant posts of principal in government colleges should be filled through an entrance examination. This was opposed by lecturers of government degree colleges, who stated that it would deprive them of their right to become principals based on seniority.

The government, however, did not fill the vacant posts and instead allowed colleges to function with in-charge principals.

During the monsoon session, Higher Education Minister Dr MC Sudhakar told the Assembly that the government issued an order for direct recruitment of principals in 2018 and permission was given for the same in 2019. In 2020, the government decided to ask the Karnataka Examinations Authority (KEA) to conduct the entrance test to fill vacant posts of principal in its degree colleges. However, only in 2022, the government permitted KEA to conduct the test. P7

NOBEL laureate Muhammad Yunus on Thursday took oath as the head of the interim government in Bangladesh. The 84-year-old economist-turned-politician was administered the oath of office by President Mohammed Shahabuddin at a ceremony at the presidential palace 'Bangabhaban' in Dhaka in the evening.

Yunus will lead a 16-member cabinet, whose members are titled advisers, not ministers. The ceremony was attended by political leaders, civil society leaders, generals and diplomats, including the Indian High Commissioner in Dhaka, Pranay Verma.

According to reports from Dhaka, there is now hope that the law and order situation will improve. "I personally know most of the advisors and expect them to restore law and order, check corruption, take steps to ensure that life returns to normalcy, and the economy is back on track," Nazmul Ahsan Kalimullah, a political commentator from Bangladesh, told this newspaper over phone.

Meanwhile, External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar said on Thursday that he received a phone call from his British counterpart David Lammy to discuss the unfolding situation in Bangladesh. According to sources in Delhi, the Indian government has urged Air India and IndiGo to continue to operate their flight services to and from Bangladesh without disruption so that Indian citizens can come back. The Indian mission in Dhaka has facilitated movement of Indian nationals including project personnel across land borders. P9,12

Greater B'luru Governance Bill limited in scope: Report

Janaagraha analysis reveals it is not even half as effective as draft of BBC-GBG Bill, scores poorly on many parameters

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE highly anticipated Greater Bengaluru Governance (GBG) Bill, which was tabled in the Legislative Assembly on July 23, does not incorporate many progressive aspects of governance that are necessary to build a vibrant, modern city, a recent study highlighted.

Janaagraha, a city-based not-for-profit working to transform the quality of life in India's cities, undertook an in-depth comparative analysis of the GBG Bill and the BBC-GBG Bill, which was proposed by the Brand Bengaluru Committee earlier this year. The study also evaluated the BBMP Act, 2020, and the KMC Act, 1976.

The study highlighted that the GBG Bill scores poorly across all four city-system components, including urban planning and design, urban capacities and resources, empowered and legitimate political representation, transparency, accountability, and civic participation. Overall, the Bill scored a dismal 3.35 out of 10. The study revealed that the GBG Bill is not even half as effective as the earlier draft of the BBC-GBG Bill. The four bills, or acts, are graded on 33 parameters, scoring them on a scale of 0 to 10.

Janaagraha CEO Srikanth Viswanathan said, "The expectation that the GBG Bill will usher in a progressive governance model, which could facilitate significant improvement in different aspects of people's lives, has been betrayed with the tabling of a very limiting Bill. It is also disappointing to note that the government has chosen to ignore many of the desirable recommendations of the Brand Bengaluru Committee. Through this study, we have drawn attention to some key areas that need attention and decisive action from the government."

The comparison is based on the Annual Survey of India's City-Systems (ASICS), which evaluated the quality of governance in cities by assessing the quality of laws, policies, institutions, and institutional processes that together help govern them.

On the parameter of urban planning and design, the tabled Bill scored zero, while the BBC-GBG Bill secured 6.33 on 10. For urban capacities and resources, the GBG Bill secured 6.50, while the BBC-GBG Bill got a high score of 9 out of 10.

On empowering and legitimising political representation, the proposed Bill provides five-year mayoral tenure and devolution of all 18 functions as per the 12th Schedule. However, it does not empower staff, budgets, or mandatory training for mayors and councillors, among others.

Overall, the study suggested that the Bill should provide for a metropolitan mayor for the Greater Bengaluru Area, mandate disclosure of interests by mayors and councillors, and empower the State Election Commission over the delimitation of wards and reservations to different categories. Other suggestions included strengthening the ombudsman to also investigate corruption suo motu and improving public participation in planning across all levels.

Janaagraha head (participatory governance) Santosh Nargund said now that the Bill has been referred to the house committee, the government must give wide publicity to it and invite citizens, urban experts, and civil society organisations to actively contribute to improving the Bill, before adopting it.

'SEC ready for BBMP polls, waiting for SC order'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

STATE election commissioner GS Sangresh said on Thursday that the commission is ready to hold elections to the BBMP council. However, it is waiting for the Supreme Court's verdict in this regard. Sangresh, who took charge as commissioner recently, told reporters here that the Supreme Court will hear the case on August 20.

He said the commission will not wait for the formation of Greater Bengaluru Governance Authority, it will go ahead with elections to the BBMP council based on the SC verdict.

Elections to Mysuru, Shivamogga and Tumakuru municipal corporations will be held shortly. The commission will announce the dates for the same soon.

"As per Supreme Court's directions on elections to local civic bodies issued in 2006, polls will be held for Mysuru, Shivamogga and Tumakuru municipal corporations. Elections will be held to these corporations as per the existing reservation pattern and wards," Sangreshi said.

"Elections to zilla and taluk panchayats and the BBMP council have not been held for four years. Article 243K mandates that as soon as the term of these bodies ends, the commission should declare elections. The state government should cooperate with the commission in conducting the elections," Sangresh said.

Min: 1.1L engg grads from state will drive tech industry

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka Digital Economy Mission (KDEM) on Thursday held a state-led roundtable with chief human resources officers (CHRO) to drive talent and skill development with focus on key areas such as internships, apprenticeships, common certifying programmes and increasing the employability of talent from emerging tech clusters of the state.

The government announced that the state will adopt a new mantra for 'skilling locally and working globally.' A total of 1.1 lakh engineering students from the state will fuel the global tech industry with CHROs bridging the skill gap, said Priyank Kharge, Minister for IT-BT, during the meeting.

The series of CHRO roundtables are being organised to get insights from industry champions on the demand and how the Karnataka talent ecosystem can supply both India and the world, analyse the skill gaps and design skill programmes as per the needs of the industry. It also aims to build strong partnerships to drive industry-ready talent from educational institutions and partners.

"Karnataka is the only state in India to have over 55% women CHRO leaders. We take pride in housing over 45% of GCCs in India with an over 7 lakh workforce. We have initiated a Skill Advisory Council for Emerging Technologies to address the skill gap faced by the industry and also focus on future technologies skill requirements that will help maintain Karnataka's leadership position in the global industry," said Kharge.

BWSSB charges for water connections raise hackles

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THE Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board's (BWSSB) direction to homeowners at nearly 35 layouts, most of them BDA approved, on charges to be paid for new Cauvery water connections has set alarm bells ringing. The notices have been sent to layouts dotting Kanakapura Road, Byatarayanapura and Sarjapur Road on August 6.

Under the Cauvery Water Supply Scheme Stage V, 110 villages in peripheral areas of the city are being supplied drinking water.

TNIE has a copy of the letter signed by the respective executive engineers asking the homeowners to pay Rs 60 per sqft for their sites to get piped water connection at their doorstep from a common point inside the layout. The letter has also asked the layouts to hand over their Civic Amenity (CA) sites to the Water Supply Board.

Residents of Judicial Layout on Kanakapura Road were upset over the move. "The charges being levied are very high. For instance, my site totals 4,000 sqft and I might have to pay Rs 2.5 lakh to get piped water to my house. There are 419 sites in our layout with over 200 houses built so far," K S Ashwatha Narayanan, vice-president of the Judicial Layout Residents Welfare Association, told TNIE.

A homeowner requesting anonymity told TNIE, "I am a government employee. I have a 40x70 sqft site here and if I pay the fee, I may have to shell out Rs 1.8 lakh. In addition to that, the prorata charges (one time payment for water and sanitary connection) is roughly Rs 70,000. It is just not possible for me."

Narayanan emphasised that all CA sites in BDA-approved layouts are under the control of BDA. "We have seven sites here and three of them have already been utilised -- one each for a hostel, yoga centre and by the BSNL. Four of them lie unutilised. BWSSB needs to ask BDA to hand it over to them. We do not own CA sites."

Asked about the issues, a senior BWSSB official told TNIE, "A few layouts in the peripheral areas of the city were left out during Phase-I of the project as they were under litigation or were BDA Layouts built between 2000 and 2004 whose infrastructure is very poor. There must roughly be some 35 layouts across the villages for which we have sent these letters."

Unlike Phase-I for which the state and central governments agreed to bear two-thirds of the infrastructure cost and the Water Supply Board the rest, in Phase-II, the governments will only bear 50% of the cost. Hence, to provide water supply, the homeowners need to bear some of the cost," he explained. "The CA sites are sought by us to build service stations and other infrastructure," he added.

Edu taskforce to focus on institution, industry interface

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THINK tanks and experts from education, research, and industry came together on Thursday to formulate a vision plan for Karnataka and its higher education ecosystem.

The Education for Transformation (EFT) Summit-2024 announced that an Education Task Force i3-Institution, Industry, Interface — will be formed to make Karnataka a hub of education of global standards. ETF aims to position the state, especially Bengaluru, as an innovation and research hub by fostering collaboration between academia, industry, and government. The summit sought to secure partnerships and sponsorships to support this transformative vision.

Rajeev Gowda, Vice-Chairman of State Planning Commission, and other dignitaries at the inauguration of the Education for Transformation Summit on Thursday

In his inaugural address, Rajeev Gowda, Vice-Chairman of the State Planning Commission, said given the industry talent pool the city hosts, this is an important beginning to find ways to harness this potential. "We should have a two-dimensional approach where we focus on the inside and the outside of the education system. On the inside, we create systems for both students and teachers to be critical thinkers, while developing compassion as individuals. On the outside, it is important that we create opportunities for those interested to flourish as researchers," he said.

Gowda added that it is important to integrate the five Cs — Creativity, Critical Thinking, Confidence, Compassion and Civility — into the education system.

Meanwhile, Sadagopan, former director, International Institute of Information Technology-Bangalore, highlighted the need to make education more accessible for foreign students and addressed the disparity between rising student fees and stagnant salaries of faculty members.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You may have to accept that you are not on form and that you are still inclined to exaggerate other people's resistance to your plans. Now is the moment to start developing some of that gentle diplomacy which is the normal preserve of the Libran, your opposite sign.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Some kind of a break-up or conflict appears to be taking place, or will have done so by the time the next few days have passed. You are finally in an ideal position to knock some sense into a partner's head, but just how long it takes is an open question. Perhaps you'd better be patient!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Relations with children are beginning to assume a greater importance, perhaps because events are now moving so much faster than in the past, but also because there's an understanding that family feelings need to be respected. If you are undecided about your next move, you may allow yourself a little more time.

Where to turn? This is the great question which must be perplexing you now that six planets are urging you to take thirty-six different courses of action. If you wish, you may allow fate to follow its course, waiting for events to settle down.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Now that Mars is changing its position, you should put more effort into being diplomatic and must listen carefully to what other people are saying. Whether you take their advice or comments into consideration is, of course, entirely another matter.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
The quicker you come to terms with your financial situation, the better you will be able to plan various social events and other engagements. Your ambitions are all very well, but you must have the cash to pay your way, otherwise you'll have to give up before you're even half done.

For once in your life you may have to settle for second best, much as this goes against the grain. However, as soon as the current planetary situation has eased, you will once again be on course for the top. It's a question of three steps forward for every two back.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
What is important to you is peace of mind, yet to achieve such a happy state, you must deal with whatever personal frustrations have built up over the past few months. The problem is that it's just so hard to get hold of the relevant information at the moment.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You may have become used to frequent chopping and changing in your plans. Many of you are currently involved in some sort of political or community activity, but will soon begin to question your motives. You need to be sure that a particular goal is really the right one for you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Just as long as you keep remembering that you are still on the right course, you will get the best out of your current situation. However, minor adjustments may be necessary in the short term, and whatever changes you make this week will result in major decisions some way down the line.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Take extra care when travelling and allow for delays or cancellations. The indications are definitely contradictory, with Mars urging you to push ahead while Mercury advises you to slow down. Just to complicate matters, Venus thinks that you should stay as you are!

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You may soon receive interesting news from overseas, yet the results may be far from what you expected. Money-wise you are now entering another extravagant, high-spending phase. Keep something in reserve, though, for the last thing you want to do is leave yourself short.

BJP Launches Successful 'Mysuru Chalo' Padayatra

Under the leadership of BJP State President B.Y. Vijayendra, the 'Mysuru Chalo' padayatra has emerged as a major success, drawing attention to alleged corruption within the Congress government. The march, aimed at raising public awareness about the MUDA scam and other government shortcomings, has exceeded expectations in both turnout and impact.

According to sources from the BJP, the State Government's attempts to obstruct the march in Bengaluru only heightened public interest and support. "The government's efforts to suppress our protest have only confirmed our suspicions about the MUDA scam," said a BJP source. "Instead of stifling the movement, these actions have fueled it, demonstrating the widespread dissatisfaction with the current administration."

Sources also revealed that despite the government's refusal to address the MUDA scam during the Legislative session, Vijayendra and his team, in collaboration with their JD(S) allies, pressed forward with their plans. "B.Y. Vijayendra took decisive action in challenging circumstances," the sources noted. "He successfully rallied party leaders and workers to ensure the padayatra's success."

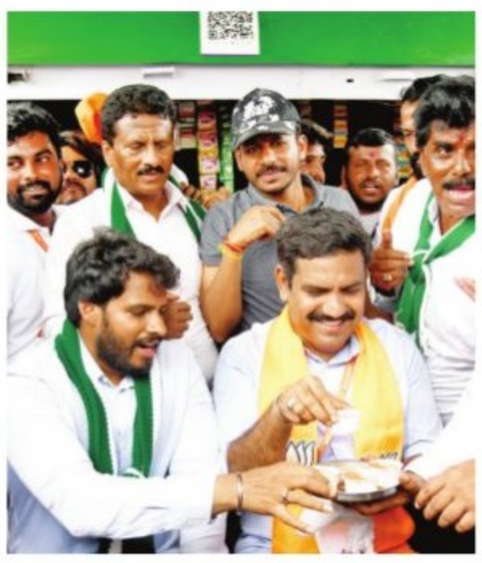
The BJP's continued activism highlights the party's ongoing efforts to criticise the Congress government's handling of drought management, development issues, and rising prices. "Our goal was to give the government a chance to implement its promises," said a BJP spokesperson. "When the Congress failed to act, we had no choice but to launch a movement."

The BJP sources also criticised the Congress for its alleged misuse of funds designated for Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes and for using police force to suppress protests. "The government's handling of the MUDA scam and the Valmiki Corporation scandal has only increased public anger. The Congress's lack of response and Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's evasion have only strengthened our resolve," the source added.

The padayatra, which spans 130 kilometers, has attracted significant public support, leading to widespread participation across the state. "This movement is not driven by political motives but by genuine concern for the country's integrity. The massive turnout and enthusiastic participation underscore the public's desire for accountability," a BJP source stated.

The Congress's counter-effort, the Janandolana Yatra, has been seen as a reactive measure. "The fact that those accused of corruption are now participating in protests only underscores the truth of our allegations," the source added.



Siddaramaiah's Tarnished Image: Questions of Corruption and Cover-Ups

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's reputation as a clean leader is under scrutiny amid allegations of corruption and scandal. Critics argue that Siddaramaiah is more focused on protecting the guilty than addressing systemic issues within his administration.

Protecting the Guilty

Siddaramaiah has maintained his innocence in the face of corruption accusations, but critics suggest his actions indicate a reluctance to address wrongdoing. Sources claim that Siddaramaiah's reluctance to address the MUDA scam and the Valmiki Corporation controversy reveals a troubling effort to shield those involved rather than cleaning up the system.

Intimidation and Obstruction

The tragic suicide of Valmiki Corporation superintendent Chandrasekaran P. and subsequent intimidation of his wife by local police raises questions about the extent of official influence in this case. When the Enforcement Directorate (ED) initiated an investigation under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA), it faced an unusual backlash. A complaint against the ED was filed by Kallesh, a suspended officer, adding to the controversy.

MUDA Scandal and Delays

The MUDA scandal, which involves illegal land allocations and document fraud, has further marred Siddaramaiah's administration.

Despite the scandal coming to light, the Urban Development Minister's actions were limited to transferring officials rather than taking decisive disciplinary action. The formation of a commission led by a retired High Court judge was seen as a tactic to silence opposition during the legislative session.

Questionable Judicial Inquiries

Judicial inquiries, such as the one into the Arkavathy Layout, have often failed to yield significant results. This pattern raises doubts about the effectiveness and integrity of such investigations.

Cover-Up Allegations

The investigation into the MUDA scam revealed that the transfer of government funds to benami accounts was partially confirmed by an SIT investigation.

However, critics argue that only a portion of the funds has been recovered and that attempts to downplay the seriousness of the issue persist.

Delay and Exclusion

The SIT's 40-day delay in questioning former minister B. Nagendra, coupled with the omission of his name from the charge sheet, has intensified suspicions of a cover-up. The names of other key figures, such as MLA Basanagouda Daddal, were also missing from the charge sheet.

Scandal Depth and Chief Minister's Role

The scope of the MUDA scam, involving illegal land allocations and document falsification, implicates high-level officials, including Siddaramaiah. Allegations include questionable land acquisitions by Siddaramaiah's wife, Parvathi, and violations of land acquisition rules.

Public Concerns and Accountability

The public is questioning why Siddaramaiah's family received land allocations while thousands of common citizens did not.

There are calls for a transparent investigation into the Rs 5,000 crore scam, with demands for accountability from both the Chief Minister and involved ministers.

Key Questions for Siddaramaiah

What criteria were used to drop acquisition proceedings for Survey No. 464 in Kesare village in 1998?

As Chief Minister in 2017, did Siddaramaiah oversee changes to land allotment processes?

Will Siddaramaiah agree to apply new compensation rules to previously acquired lands by MUDA and other agencies?

What is the Valmiki Scandal? Accountability of Siddaramaiah

The scandal involving the Karnataka Maharshi Valmiki Scheduled Tribes Development Corporation surfaced just as the Congress government marked its first year in office. Echoing Opposition claims of endemic corruption within the Congress, the government has been caught red-handed. Denial of the scam now seems untenable.

Details of the Scandal

A well-orchestrated scheme appears to have diverted funds intended for Scheduled Tribe welfare into benami accounts. With a total scam amounting to Rs 187.5 crore, it is evident that such a massive embezzlement could not have occurred without the backing of influential figures.

Of the total amount, Rs 94.5 crore was transferred to 16 accounts, with each transaction ranging from Rs 4 crore to Rs 6 crore. Karnataka's protocol requires that files for payments exceeding Rs 3 crore be reviewed by the Finance Department. Given that these transfers fell within this range, the files should have been sent to the Finance Department, overseen by Siddaramaiah, who is both Chief Minister and Finance Minister.

Siddaramaiah's Responsibility

The transfers occurred under Siddaramaiah's direct oversight, implicating him in the scandal. Additionally, government rules mandate Finance Department approval for opening new bank accounts and transferring amounts beyond Rs 100 crore. The lack of such approval for these new accounts raises questions about possible verbal authorisations or other irregularities.

Further Concerns

The remaining Rs 89 crore appears to have been distributed to around 700 individuals, many of whom are likely associates of the corporation officials and not members of the Valmiki community. Transfers of Rs 5 lakh to Rs 2 crore were made to these accounts without proper documentation or justification.

The Central Government also allocated Rs 42.97 crore for Scheduled Tribe development in 2022-23 and Rs 40.70 crore for infrastructure and housing in 2023-24. The lack of a utilisation certificate for these funds over the past 13 months raises concerns that this Rs 83 crore may have also been misappropriated.

The scandal points to a systemic failure and raises serious questions about the integrity and accountability of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and his administration.

MYSURU ALL SET FOR POLITICAL SHOWDOWN

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru

THE cultural capital of Mysuru city will witness a political showdown between the Ruling Congress and the Opposition BJP and JDS this weekend.

Both sides have been waging a political battle for more than a month ever since the alleged irregularities in the Karnataka Maharshi Valmiki Scheduled Tribes Development Corporation Ltd and Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) surfaced. The tug-of-war that started during the recent monsoon session of the legislature shaped into a padayatra from Bengaluru to Mysuru by the NDA targeting Chief Minister Siddaramaiah. The Congress was soon to counter the NDA march with its own Janandolana public meetings that were organised in towns between Bengaluru and Mysuru to highlight what the party called scams under the previous BJP government.

DyCM DK Shivakumar used it as an opportunity to take on Union Minister HD Kumaraswamy to take control of the Vokkaliga heartland.

While the NDA padayatra will culminate with a rally on Maharaja's College Grounds in Mysuru on August 10, the Congress is gearing up to exhibit its strength on Siddaramaiah's home turf a day earlier by holding a mega rally at the same venue.

Thousands of party workers of all the Bug 3 political parties and scores of its leaders from across Karnataka have already descended on Mysuru.

Although the BJP and JDS will reiterate their demand for the CM to resign over the alleged scams in the ST Development Corporation and MUDA, the NDA will be compelled to rework its strategy to keep the issue on the boil after the padayatra concludes in Mysuru. On the other hand, the Congress, which has responded strongly to the allegations with the Council of Ministers advising Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot to withdraw the show-cause notice seeking sanction of prosecution against the CM in connection with the alleged site allotment scam in MUDA, is anxiously waiting for the Raj Bhavan's next move.

The Congress has extended an invitation to all the ministers, legislators, defeated candidates, and party rank and file to be present at the mammoth rally to send out a strong political message where Siddaramaiah is all set to present the case sheets of the alleged scams that happened under the BJP's nose.

On the other hand, the NDA led by state BJP chief BY Vijayendra, LoP in Assembly R Ashoka, LoP in Council Chalavadi Narayanaswamy, Union Minister and state JDS chief HD Kumaraswamy, and JDS Youth Wing president Nikhil Kumaraswamy, wants to prove its strength in Siddaramaiah's backyard.

The NDA, too, has directed all its elected representatives and MPs from the state to be present at the rally that aims at branding Siddaramaiah, a veteran socialist, as a tainted CM. The BJP state leaders have even requested Union Home Minister Amit Shah and National BJP president JP Nadda to participate in the rally.

The rallies by the Congress and NDA may provide hints on the future course of political discourse in Karnataka as the parties want to prove their strength in the upcoming elections to panchayats, urban local bodies, and Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike.

Hotel rates shoot up

The weekend is likely to be a nightmare for tourists as the majority of the rooms in high-end and budget hotels in Mysuru have been booked for politicians and party workers. Prices of rooms in star hotels have shot up by almost 60%, said sources. Party workers from other districts have booked rooms in hotels on the outskirts of Mysuru, like Sriranagapatna, KRS, and even Nanjangud Road. Also, traffic jams are expected on prominent roads leading to the Maharaja's College Grounds as hundreds of vehicles, including buses, ferrying party workers will enter the city.

Yatra finalised in Delhi, Raj Bhavan misused: Cong

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru

THE Congress, that has geared up for its mega Janandolana rally to counter the BJP's padayatra, said the BJP-JDS alliance is raising non-issues, and its agenda of tarnishing the image of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and destabilising the government will be exposed before the people.

Social Welfare Minister HC Mahadevappa said BJP-JDS members failed to draw the attention of the government to problems in the state, and are misusing Raj Bhavan at the behest of top BJP leaders, to destabilise the elected government. The padayatra was not decided overnight but was discussed in Delhi, and it is unfortunate that the Governor served notice on a complaint filed by an individual, without conducting an inquiry, he said.

The minister ridiculed that political parties are taking out a padayatra on "non-issues" and termed it a "non-democratic move". Claiming that they are expecting more than 3 lakh workers from across the state in support of the government and Chief Minister, he said the opposition did not cooperate during the legislative session and accused the government of scams in the Valimki corporation, MUDA site allotment and diversion of SC/ST funds. The government has introduced reforms for empowerment of the downtrodden and backwards, he added.

Clarifying that the CM has no role in the MUDA scam, Mahadevappa said the allotment of sites is legal, and questioned what had prompted the Governor to serve notice when there is no evidence of nepotism or misuse of power. MUDA has legislators of all political parties, and the sites were allotted as per the board's decision. There is no truth that a Dalit's land was taken over, he added.

Ministers K Venkatesh, Zameer Ahmad and former minister Tanveer Sait said the BJP's plan will not work.

Speculation rife over Guv referring probe to CBI

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

WITH Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot yet to take action on the petition filed by activist TJ Abraham seeking his sanction to prosecute Chief Minister Siddaramaiah in connection with the alleged scam in the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA), speculation is rife about the former referring the case to the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) for a probe.

In response to the petition by Abraham on July 26, the Governor had issued a show-cause notice to the CM on the same day seeking a reply. But on August 1, the Council of Ministers, in Siddaramaiah's absence, had passed a resolution advising the Governor to withdraw the show-cause notice and reject the petition.

Whether the Governor gives sanction for prosecution or refers the case to the CBI remains to be seen.

Governor Gehlot has taken the opinion of the legal advisors to ensure that there is no friction between the Raj Bhavan and the State Government, said a Constitutional expert.

Karnataka Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister HK Patil expressed confidence that the Governor will not give sanction to prosecution as the Council of Ministers had resolved against it. "When the aid and advice of the Council of Ministers is being given, I hope that the Governor will fall in line with this because the Raj Bhavan is not a place where politics can be played... but the BJP is trying to do the same, which is unfortunate. Article 163 also says that the Governor can use his discretion... but it cannot be used in such a way that it favours the BJP. I can only say that the Governor may not go beyond the aid and advice of the Council of Ministers. That situation (as some anticipate that the Governor may give sanction to prosecution) may not happen," Patil elaborated.

MUDA ISSUE

There is skepticism in political corridors as to whether the resolution by the Council of Ministers gave immunity to Siddaramaiah in the case to some extent. "The Governor has the discretion to give sanction to prosecution without even issuing a show-cause notice. But he, however, issued a notice which turned a blessing in disguise for the CM. But the Governor has the discretion to refer the case to CBI," observed a Constitutional expert.

A BJP-JDS delegation that met the Governor on July 25 had also demanded a CBI probe into the MUDA scam.

B'luru court issues summons to CM, DyCM over 2022 protest

The 42nd Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate has issued summons to Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and DyCM DK Shivakumar to appear in person on August 29 over a case registered by the Wilson Garden police for an agitation held to protest the questioning of Congress leader Rahul Gandhi by the Directorate of Enforcement in the National Herald case more than two years ago. Judge KN Shivakumar of the 42nd Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate Court designated to try cases against sitting and former MPs/MLAs issued summons to 110 Congress leaders, including several ministers and other leaders of the party. The case was registered against them under the provisions of the IPC and the Karnataka Police Act.

Will Guv act against HDK too, asks DKS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

DEPUTY CM D K Shivakumar on Thursday said people have rejected the BJP-JDS padayatra as it lacks purpose. "What is the purpose of BJP-JDS padayatra? They are doing this because they can't digest the fact that an OBC leader has become the CM for the second term. People are not responding to the padayatra," he said. He also said JDS workers are not actively participating in the yatra. He said they have asked specific questions to Union Minister HD Kumaraswamy, but he has not answered any of those questions.

The DyCM said they are waiting for the Governor's decision on a case of illegally approving mining in Sandur in 2007 when Kumaraswamy was the CM. "I have read reports regarding this in the media. I am told a chargesheet has been filed and Lokayukta has sought permission from the Governor to prosecute him. The Governor has not approved the request yet. I don't have much information on this but this needs to be investigated fully. Let us wait and see what the Governor decides on this matter," he said.

Later in the day, state Congress put out a tweet saying that the Lokayukta had sought permisison from the Governor to prosecute HD Kumaraswamy in the 2007 illegal mining case.

On former PM HD Deve Gowda calling on Union Home Minister Amit Shah in Delhi on Thursday, he said, "He (Gowda) has to meet the Shah to protect his family. Attempts are on to put me and Siddaramaiah behind the bars. We are ready for everything."

Kanakapura visit

Shivakumar will visit Kanakapura on the 2nd and 4th Saturdays of every month to redress problems of people. "It was inconvenient for the people of Bengaluru South to visit me in Bengaluru. I have decided to go to their doorstep and listen to their problems," he said.

Plaint before Spl Court against CM, his wife, others

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A complaint was filed before the Special Court to try cases against sitting and former MPs/MLAs, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, his wife Parvathy BM and others over an alleged scam in allotment of sites by Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA).

After verification of documents supporting the complaint to know whether it is in compliance with provisions of the law, Judge Santhosh Gajanan Bhat will hear the arguments on Friday on whether the complaint is to be registered and notice issued to the accused. Senior advocate Lakshmy Iyengar, appearing on behalf of the complainant Snehamayi Krishna, who claims to be a social worker from Mysuru, said the complaint was presented before the court.

The court will verify the documents and take them up for arguments on Friday, on whether it is to be registered, and issue notice to the accused by taking cognisance of offences allegedly committed, she added. It was contended in the complaint that sanction to prosecute the chief minister is not required since he has no role in his official capacity in the scam. The complainant prayed to court to take cognisance of the complaint and refer the same to an independent investigating agency like Central Bureau of Investigation or Lokayukta, which are not under the state government.

On complaints filed by RTI activists against him, CM Siddaramaiah said they are false and will not stand in court. He was talking to reporters in Mysuru.

Satish can become CM in future, says Rajanna

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Cooperation Minister KN Rajanna, considered to be a staunch supporter of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, has sparked a fresh controversy by saying that PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi can become the state's chief minister in the future. Rajanna had earlier demanded the creation of more DyCM posts in the state.

Speaking to a private TV channel, Rajanna rubbished reports that the relationship between Satish and the CM was strained. "Their bond is a strong one... in our community (ST Nayaka), Satish has an opportunity to attain the highest post (CM's) in the future," Rajanna said.

Meanwhile, on whether Siddaramaiah will resign if the Governor gives sanction to prosecute him in the MUDA case, Rajanna cited the example of Delhi CM Arvind Kejriwal. He hinted that during the Janandolana event in Mysuru on Friday, the Congress will expose the alleged scams of the previous BJP government and also that of Union Minister HD Kumaraswamy.

Siddu meets MLC BK Hariprasad

Ahead of the Janandolana event in Mysuru on Friday, CM Siddaramaiah met his strongest critic in the party, MLC BK Hariprasad, and sought the latter's cooperation. Hariprasad said that he had a difference of opinion with the CM, but both of them have the same ideological mindset. The duo had a discussion following the instructions of the party high command that the CM should take Hariprasad into confidence, an informed source said.

Plan to provide best skills to local workforce: Priyank

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE @ Bengaluru

IN a bid to allay "misconceptions" surrounding the controversial proposal to provide job reservation for Kannadigas in the private sector, two ministers of the Karnataka government on Thursday said the core idea is to equip the local workforce with the requisite skill-sets.

"In terms of reservation, any state government would love to have locals given preference, and we already have that in our industrial policy, with respect to Group C and D workforces. The idea is to see more locals get jobs, and the only way to achieve this is by ensuring that they get the best skill-sets," IT/BT Minister Priyank Kharge said. He said the state government is coming up with one of the best disruptive plans to ensure that every Kannadiga is the most skilled human resource in the world. "...that's why we skill locally, we go globally," he stated.

Echoing similar views, Industries Minister MB Patil said, "With regard to skills, we will train locals through ITIs. Even industry can take over ITIs, and make the workforce skill-worthy, so that it can be suitably employed." He, however, clarified that nothing will be forced upon industry. Stating that there is no need for panic, he reassured: "We have discussed the matter with the chief minister too. We have a policy, and will continue our dialogue with all stakeholders. There's no need for fear. There are due consultations with all departments. A suitable decision will be made, which will be welcomed by all stakeholders."

Industries Minister MB Patil and IT/BT Minister Priyank Kharge unveil the logo for the 9th Edition of TiE Global Summit (TGS) 2024, in Bengaluru on Thursday | EXPRESS

The said draft Bill mandates 50% reservation in managerial positions and 70% in non-managerial positions for locals in private firms. Both Kharge and Patil were attending the curtain-raiser of the TiE Bangalore's 9th Edition of TiE Global Summit 2024 here. To a question on the contentious proposal of the state government to introduce 14-hour workdays in the IT sector, the IT minister said it is an industry-specific plan, which is being evaluated. "The 14-hour shift was an industry-driven request, which will not happen without the consent of the individual. Any industry which wants to leverage that plan, must seek the labour department's permission to do so. Right now, it is only a thought process, (for which) we need to have multi-department consultations first," he reiterated.

DUO POSES AS TENANTS, ROBS AGED COUPLE

The accused attacked and fled with valuables worth Rs 4 lakh in 15 minutes

PRAVEEN KUMAR @ Bengaluru

A septuagenarian couple were attacked and robbed at their residence in Bengaluru North by another couple, who came in the guise of prospective tenants.

The victims have been identified as C Siddagangappa (74), and his wife Siddalingamma (70). They had constructed an independent house on their farm, comprising of three units, of which two were used during their children's visits. Presently, the couple were the only occupants of the building, as their married children stayed separately.

The said crime took place between 10.30 am and 10.45 am on Tuesday. Siddagangappa went to show the house, when the accused threw chilli powder at his face. They then locked him inside a bathroom, and attacked Siddalingamma, before making away with a gold chain and other valuables. The accused couple later sold the chain, valued at Rs 4 lakh, to a flower vendor for a meagre sum. The chain has since been recovered. The aged couple were later admitted to hospital, and the Tavarekere police have registered a case.

The accused are suspected to have known that only the aged couple lives in the building.

"The accused were in our building for almost 15 minutes. First, they attacked me and even tried to strangle me with a muffler. After throwing chilli powder on my face, they locked me inside a bathroom, and later bolted the main door from outside. Then they went to the ground floor and assaulted my wife. They even punched her in the face. After taking away her gold chain, they locked the house from the outside and escaped. We had not put any 'TO LET' board outside our house. After finding two units unoccupied, they first approached my wife as tenants," Siddagangappa told TNIE.

Siddagangappa managed to get out of the bathroom. "I started screaming from the second floor to draw the attention of my wife. However, I found out that she had also been locked up. Siddalingamma called my daughter who stays nearby, who took us to the hospital. Subsequently, the police were informed," he added.

"We have obtained leads from the woman who purchased the gold chain. She had also managed to take the accused couple's mobile number. The accused have switched off their mobile phones," said an officer.

Legal gaps help white-collar offenders evade law: Experts

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

WHITE-collar crimes are posing an escalating challenge in India, impacting the economy and society despite their non-violent nature. These crimes, which include taxation fraud, drug trafficking, corporate fraud, medical claims fraud, and identity theft, are resulting in significant financial losses and societal harm.

During the International Conference on Global Criminology and Victimology (ICGCV), conducted by RV University, experts highlighted the gap in legal protections, which is worsened by rapid technological advancements and the evolving nature of financial crimes. The experts argued that this 'gap' is making it easier for offenders to evade justice. Students from various universities participated in the discussion focused on 'corporate crimes' and 'white collar crimes'. The discussion focused on taxation fraud involving deliberate underpayment or non-payment of taxes, often facilitated by falsified documents, apart from other topics like drug trafficking, and money laundering.

Students from a criminology background highlighted how illicit profits from drug sales are washed through financial institutions to appear legitimate, contributing to a multi-billion-dollar industry.

The discussion also shed light on corporate fraud involving unethical actions by high-level executives, leading to massive financial losses for companies and their stakeholders, and medical claims fraud which includes the submission of inflated medical bills and unnecessary treatments, perpetrated by both private and public healthcare providers.

Professor Ashwin Mishra, Associate Dean at School of Law, RV University, highlighted that India's legal framework is struggling to keep up with the complexities of white-collar crime.

"Current laws are outdated and inadequate for addressing the sophisticated methods used by perpetrators. The gap in legal protections is exacerbated by rapid technological advancements," he mentioned.

The discussions stressed for substantial legal reforms and emphasized the need for enhanced financial and technological literacy among the public.

Bus conductor roughs up passenger, suspended

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A BMTC bus conductor has been suspended for allegedly manhandling a passenger following an argument over the former not returning a change of Rs 5.

The passenger, Abhinav Raj, recounted the incident on X on Wednesday, stating that he boarded the bus from KR Puram to Marathahalli Bridge (route 500 DC/7) and purchased a Rs 15 ticket. He handed over Rs 20, but the conductor refused to return the change, despite having coins in his pocket, Raj claimed. When Raj suggested paying via UPI, the conductor declined and continued to verbally abuse him.

Raj, an employee at a private firm in the city, also highlighted that the situation escalated when he began recording the altercation, leading to the conductor manhandling him. He also claimed that the conductor also forced him to speak in Kannada and was rude to all passengers on the bus.

Following the incident, which took place near Rainbow Hospital in Marathahalli, Raj posted the video that captured the confrontation, along with the image of the bus ticket. After the video went viral on social media, Bengaluru City Police commented on the post, asking for Raj's number to verify the details.

State can't excavate steep hills till further notice: Kerala HC

'No scientific way to infer carrying capacity of terrain'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kochi

IN the wake of the twin Wayanad landslides that left hundreds dead and several more missing, the Kerala High Court on Thursday directed the state government to stop the excavation of soil from steep hills until further orders.

Issuing the order on a public interest litigation (PIL), a division bench comprising Acting Chief Justice A Muhamed Mustaque and Justice S Manu observed that it could not allow, for the time being, excavation of soil from hilly terrain with steep slopes, considering the ecological imbalances created consequent to the removal of "ordinary earth" from the slope of the hills.

S Unnikrishnan of Thiruvananthapuram filed the PIL seeking to declare Section 14(2) of the Kerala Minor Mineral Concession Rules, 2015, unconstitutional and a directive to the state government to make the slope stability report mandatory for granting building permits in the hilly terrain with steep slopes. Section 14(2) deals with the issue of quarrying permits for ordinary earth.

The HC ordered the principal secretary, industries, to issue a necessary order directing geologists not to allow soil excavation from steep hill areas. The HC also observed that it found that there was no scientific method to surmise the carrying capacity of hilly terrain.

"Excavation...shall not be allowed without conducting a scientific study as to the carrying capacity of hilly terrain," it said.

The petitioner submitted that indiscriminate quarrying was causing severe environmental issues. Most hills in Kerala were razed for quarrying soil in the name of construction and other developmental purposes. He said Section 14(2) allowed excavation from hilly terrain for construction of buildings if a certificate on the slope's stability is obtained from a reputable geotechnical investigation service.

PINARAYI SOUGHT COMPREHENSIVE REHAB PACKAGE FROM CENTRE FOR VICTIMS

T'Puram: Kerala has requested the union government to provide a comprehensive rehabilitation package for the victims of Wayanad landslide, Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan has said. "So far, the response from the centre is favourable. We hope that the centre will extend support to help the affected families, their rehabilitation and in establishing a township for them, he told media persons here on Thursday." Pinarayi said he hopes that the Prime Minister who would visit Wayanad on Saturday will take a favourable stand on these requests. The state has asked the centre to declare the incident as of "rare severity" nature. The Union Home Ministry has appointed a nine-member team to submit a report on the request. The team leader Rajeev Kumar, joint secretary of the department visited him on Thursday, the CM said.Search operations are continuing, Pinarayi said. The search operations at Mundakkai and Chooralmala on Friday will have people's participation.

Pawan meets Siddu, Khandre discusses forest issues

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

ANDHRA Pradesh Deputy CM and Jana Sena Party founder Konidala Pawan Kalyan called on Karnataka Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and sought his cooperation in strengthening the relationship between the two neighbouring states.

On the sidelines of his scheduled meeting with Forest Minister Eshwar Khandre, Pawan made time to meet Siddaramaiah and exchanged pleasantries. Housing Minister Zameer Ahmed Khan, MLAs Anekal Shivanna, Nelamangala Srinivas and Belagavi North MLA Asif Sait were also present.

According to sources, his visit has nothing to do with politics. "I discussed with the CM the seven-point agenda with regard to the forest department, to evolve mutual agreement," said Pawan, who also holds the forest portfolio in the Andhra Pradesh government. He ruled out any discussion on politics with Siddaramaiah.

Later, Pawan claimed he was impressed by the movie Pushpa, and Gandhadagudi movie idol Dr Rajkumar, who plays the lead role. "In Gandhadagudi, the hero safeguards the forest. But of late, the hero is the one who cuts trees (red sanders). There is a cultural shift. In reel life too, I have been involved in such movies but in real life want to be a conservationist, as politics gave me a great opportunity," he remarked.

He was regretful that he was not able to speak Kannada and hoped to learn the language soon. He recited a stanza written by Rashtrakavi Kuvempu with the forest as the theme.

Police had a tough time controlling fans at Vidhana Soudha, with even government staffers rushing to catch a glimpse of the actor.

Andhra seeks help to set up jumbo camps, train mahouts

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

FOREST, Environment and Ecology Minister Eshwar B Khandre on Thursday said the Karnataka forest department will hand over partially trained kumki (camp) elephants to Andhra Pradesh. That is not all, mahouts and kawadis will also be trained by their counterparts from Karnataka.

Khandre told the media that Andhra Pradesh has asked for eight kumki elephants, and Karnataka, which has 103 kumkis housed in various camps, will send them.

All help will be extended to set up elephant camps, and to capture, dart and transport captive wild elephants, besides measures for elephant management in Andhra Pradesh. Help will also be extended to train elephants. So far, Karnataka has handed at least 67 elephants to other states, including Uttar Pradesh, Chhattisgarh and Maharashtra.

He was speaking on the sidelines of a detailed discussion he had with Andhra Pradesh Deputy CM and Forest and Environment Pawan Kalyan, and forest officials of both states. The two states discussed signing an MoU to mitigate conflict, promote eco-tourism, curtail poaching, especially of red sanders, and forest protection. The MoU will also help enter a formal agreement between the two states for tackling man-elephant conflict. The SOPs being drawn up for elephant capture in Karnataka will be extended to AP, he said.

Kalyan said the seven-point agenda in the MoU will include usage of IT in forest and conflict management and elephant tracking, transfer of knowledge and wildlife poaching.

At the meeting, Kalyan appreciated Karnataka's forest officials and said they had admitted to have got Rs 140 crore from selling seized red sanders in 2017. Kalyan said: "Karnataka officials are willing to help the Andhra Pradesh forest department with best practices being followed in the state," he said.

'NHAI ABANDONED KALI BRIDGE, LEADING TO ITS COLLAPSE'

SUBHASH CHANDRA NS @ Karwar

THE National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) had allegedly issued a safety certification for the 42-year-old bridge on NH 66, which collapsed on Wednesday morning due to lack of periodical maintenance.

The Uttara Kannada district administration has found that there was absolute negligence on part of the NHAI, and this has been a prime reason for collapse of the bridge on NH 66, near Karwar, which connects Goa and Karnataka.

Sources in the district administration said that the bridge was transferred to be under the the NHAI in 2013, and the authority had an agreement to maintain the old bridge at periodic intervals. "They were supposed to issue a fitness certificate after maintenance. But they had issued a certificate without any maintenance work being carried out," a highly placed official of the Uttara Kannada district administration told TNIE.

Adding to this, Uttara Kannada Superintendent of Police, M Narayan mentioned about a that there is already a complaint lodged against the NHAI, by a Tamil Nadu based truck driver, where he mentions about the lack of maintenance.

"They were supposed to replace the hinge bearings and clips at the joints of the pillars it was standing upon. They were supposed to issue a calibration and fitness certificate, which they are said to have issued without doing so," said the official and added, "They had an agreement with the State PWD department which constructed the bridge, to maintain the bridge."

Truck driver Balamurugan Pooswami blamed the NHAI for the disaster in his complaint. "I was coming from Goa towards Karwar and the bridge collapsed. This is because of the poor maintenance and negligence from NHAI," he said.

Deputy Commissioner Lakshmi Priya will write to the State Government regarding this incident recommending inquiry and action against NHAI.

The proposal for construction of the bridge came way back in early 1960s and the construction began in 1965. However, it was completed and open for public in 1983, (nearly 18 years after the construction began).

The bridge was constructed at a cost of Rs 4 crore by the then state government. The 665.5-metre-long bridge was repaired in 2009 and handed over to NHAI in 2013.

However, the NHAI later on constructed the new bridge and allegedly abandoned the old one.

Maken raises Kodava Hockey in RS, seeks funds

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

Former Union Sports Minister and Rajya Sabha MP from Karnataka Ajay Maken raised an important question in the Rajya Sabha on Thursday, regarding support for Kodava Hockey, also known as Coorg Hockey. Highlighting the significance of this tournament, Maken noted that since its inception in 1997, Kodava Hockey has earned a place in the Guinness Book of Records as the largest hockey tournament, with approximately 4,834 players participating this year.

Maken emphasized that Kodagu, or Coorg, often referred to as the "cradle of Indian hockey", has produced 50 international hockey players, including seven Olympians. He questioned the Union Government on whether it would consider providing grants or one-time infrastructure development funds to support this region, which has contributed significantly to Indian hockey. Responding to the query, Union Sports Deputy Minister Raksha Kadse acknowledged the tournament's Guinness Record but stated, "There is no provision to fund this directly unless the state makes a request."

In response, Ajay Maken, argued that there are ways to fund sports directly, and cited examples where sports like football have received direct funding. He proposed that similar to high-altitude sports facilities in Coonoor, Tamil Nadu, a high-altitude training centre could be established in Coorg.

FLOOD ALERT ISSUED AT MANI RESERVOIR

Bengaluru: The KPCL has issued a warning about the flooding of Mani reservoir and has urged the Kodagu district administration to vacate locals and livestock from downstream to safer habitat. Govt feels heat over 'charred remains in bag' incident

EXPRESS NEWS @ BELAGAVI

AFTER reports of a man carrying the charred remains of his 18-year-old son, who died in the recent factory blaze in Belagavi, in a bag went viral, the district administration has come under fire from several quarters.

The state BJP leadership, which slammed the state government over the matter, alleged that Chief Minister Siddaramaiah is "remorseless".

Yallappa Gundyagol, 18, an employee of Sneham International at Navage near Belagavi, was charred to death inside the factory lift after a major fire broke out following an electric short-circuit on Tuesday night.

Father of the Belagavi factory blaze victim taking the his charred remains in a bag

It is said that when his parents went to the factory on Wednesday to collect the body, Yallappa's charred remains were handed over to them in a bag.

Videos and pictures of the boy's father carrying the charred remains in the bag went viral on various social networking sites on Thursday.

Leader of Opposition in the legislative Assembly R Ashoka, who took to ₹X', said, "Look at this haunting and heart-wrenching visual of a father carrying the remains of his son's burnt body in a handbag after a fire accident in a factory in Belagavi. What's wrong with the Congress government in the state. Can't the government handle the mortal remains of the deceased with due respect and humanity?"

"Chief Minister Siddaramaiah is remorseless," he added. In his post, senior BJP leader CT Ravi said the government should initiate action against the district administration for doing so.

Meanwhile, Belagavi deputy commissioner Mohammad Roshan said the body of Yallappa was completely charred. In the presence of police and other officers, the charred remains were handed to the boy's father in an earthen pot to conduct the last rites. Yallappa's father himself admitted that he kept the earthen pot containing the charred remains of his son in a plastic bag as it would get wet if it rained, Roshan said.

Documents of candidates being verified

THE KEA conducted the test in 2023 and announced a list of selected candidates in 2024. At present, documents of the selected candidates are being verified.

A senior lecturer of a government college said as per the new recruitment rules, professors and associate professors in government and private colleges affiliated to the universities in Karnataka are eligible to apply. Those recruited from private colleges can work as principals for five years and return to their parent institutions. "Many teachers from law, engineering and even BEd colleges have applied for the posts of principal. Once their term is over, they will go back to their colleges. But lecturers in government colleges will not become principals based on seniority. No other department in the government has this initiative of allowing private sector employees to join the government sector through lateral entry," he said.

The department issued another notification in October 2023, constituting a committee to study the process of filling vacant posts of principal in degree colleges. "The committee studied the processes in various states. But nowhere it found direct recruitment of principals except in Maharashtra. In Maharashtra, only lecturers of government colleges are allowed to become principals through a written test," sources said.

TAKE LEGAL ROUTE TO CURB STEEP FEE HIKES IN PRIVATE SCHOOLS

THE new academic year has not begun on a happy note for a legion of parents in Tamil Nadu. Apart from having to cope with the menace of the high retail inflation that has drilled a hole in household budgets, parents are now facing the brunt of increased school fees. Some schools have arbitrarily increased fees by as much as 30-50 percent or more, claiming that their operational costs have gone up several folds.

Are private schools free to increase the fees at will? Tamil Nadu follows a fee-fixing model and has set up a TN Private Schools Fee Determination Committee, as suggested by the Supreme Court in 2009. Under the Tamil Nadu Schools (Regulation of Collection of Fees) Act, 2009, the panel is empowered to verify and approve fee structures proposed by private schools. Each school is supposed to submit the fee hike proposal, accompanied by their books of accounts and other claims. The committee's job is to ensure that the school management's move is not leading to profiteering and to approve the proposal or suggest an alternative after verifying the documents.

Over the years, the state government has faced a series of court battles on school education. In 2012, a division bench of the Madras High Court ruled in favour of the state government that CBSE schools would come under the purview of the fee committee. However, private CBSE-affiliated schools later managed to get an interim order from the Supreme Court, which allowed them to fix fees on their own. For the past several years, the state government has not challenged the order.

In the last decade, Tamil Nadu has seen a steep increase in the number of CBSE schools. The number has gone up from 390 in 2013, including those run by the central government, to 1,617 in 2024. Of late, the state has witnessed a flood of complaints from parents about fee hikes. The fee committee has made it clear that it has no mandate to fix the fees of the CBSE-affiliated schools unless the stay is lifted by the court. State governments, aggrieved parents, or their associations should approach the Supreme Court on the matter. A fee-fixing model for all private schools should bring some semblance of reconciliation between parents and school managements.

STEER TELANGANA LOCAL SEAT QUOTA WITH CARE

THE question whether a student is to be considered a local or non-local for admission to educational institutions—in particular for MBBS and BDS courses—is sensitive in almost every state; but it is felt more intensely in Telangana. Historically, this issue has played a key role in several agitations. In this backdrop, the recent order of the state government redefining the local category status for admission to medical courses has understandably led to protests.

With the 10-year period for including students from Andhra Pradesh ending, the Telangana government has rightly amended the provision. But in doing so, it has left the door open to criticism. As per government order 33, students who study from class 9 to the intermediate level, or those who have resided in the state for four years or more by the time of the exam will be considered for the local quota. The government dropped the earlier criterion that students who have studied for at least four years in the state from classes 6 to 12 could also avail of the quota. It makes little sense to drop the latter while the number of medical colleges has increased after 2014. There are over 8,700 medical seats in the state, half of them in government-run colleges. However, the competition is cut-throat.

Though Health Minister Damodar Rajanarasimha claims the new order will not be a disadvantage for Telangana students, it is bound to raise a number of questions. There could be any number of state students studying intermediate in other states; conversely, there could be a substantial number of students from other states studying in Telangana for four consecutive years. The state government ought to reconsider the rules to ensure that genuine local candidates do not lose out.

The issue has already taken a political dimension with the opposition BRS going hammer and tongs at the government. The pink party, following its electoral drubbing, sees in this an opportunity to reinvent itself as the sole champion of the Telangana sentiment. But these hyper-sensitive issues should be dealt with carefully, lest they acquire a momentum of their own and cause disharmony. The state government would be well advised to reconsider the matter before frustrated students take to the streets.

QUICK TAKE

ABUSE NOT A WEAPON

ISRAELI rights group B'Tselem has released a detailed report on the country's policy of using prisoner abuse and torture in Gaza. The report lists harrowing accounts of sexual abuse and arbitrary violence. Israeli soldiers also took pictures of female detainees in degrading circumstances and uploaded them online. The report came days after the country's military detained nine soldiers accused of severe abuse of a prisoner. This is not the first report of its kind. In February, UN experts had expressed alarm over similar cases, including those targeting women and children. Whatever course the war takes, the world cannot let this pass unpunished: abuse cannot be allowed as a weapon of war.

Thirteen of Kerala's 14 districts are prone to landslides. But little was done after Puthumala was struck in 2019. We must use suitable technologies to guard against future tragedies

LEARNING THE RIGHT LESSONS FROM THE WAILS OF WAYANAD

SHASHI THAROOR

Fourth-term Lok Sabha MP from Thiruvananthapuram and Sahitya Akademi winning author of 24 books, most recently Ambedkar: A Life

MANDAR PARDIKAR

THE calamity in Wayanad, the most devastating landslides in Kerala's history, is not just a wakeup call—it is a death-knell, one that had long been tolling. Yet instead of introspecting, learning from our mistakes and ensuring we never again repeat them, we in India focus on immediate relief (which Kerala does well), then on rehabilitation (which Kerala does less well), and then lapse into business-as-usual. This failure to rise above our political inertia prevents us from safeguarding our future from more such cataclysms.

On Saturday, August 3, I made an emotionally searing visit to Wayanad and assisted in the distribution of relief supplies gathered by the MP office in Thiruvananthapuram. Picking my way through the rubble to view the destruction in Mundakkai, Chooralmala and Punchiri Mattam, I beheld JCBs rumbling where, till five days ago, lavishly verdant, hilly and scenic villages had sprawled beneath great blue skies. I saw the fortunate in a relief camp.

At a hospital suffused with the anguish of those whose homes and dreams were pulverised by a bombardment of rocks and boulders in the early hours of July 30, I met a young survivor who had endured unimaginable horrors. At eight years of age, she had lost her father, mother, brother, sister, grandfather and grandmother, and sustained numerous injuries, from broken bones to a heavily bruised face. As I watched her propped up in bed, immersed in her colouring book, desolation gripped me. After all, we should have been able to prevent what she had endured.

Kerala's battle-lines with the ferocity of nature, exacerbated by climate change, have long been drawn. The writing has again been on the wall since February 2023, when ISRO's National Remote Sensing Centre (NRSC) published the Landslide Atlas of India, ranking Wayanad as the 13th most vulnerable region for landslides among 147 districts in 17 states and two Union territories. Indeed, 13 of Kerala's 14 districts are among the 50 most landslide-prone Indian regions.

When a landslide struck Wayanad's Puthumala in 2019, no special new measures were taken in the surrounding areas. Over five years later, in the secrecy of a misty and chilly night, 86,000 square kilometres of forest slipped off high in the Vellarimala hills, and tumbling into a turgid Iruvazhinjipuzha (whose course it altered), hurtled down the hillside, devouring Mundakkai, Chooralmala, Attamala and Noolpuzha, reducing their residents to figures in a tragic death toll. Upwards of 300 bodies have been found, while more than 200 souls remain missing, the odds of their still being alive dwindling by the day.

Ecologically, Kerala is deeply fragile; not only did it record the highest number of landslides in India between 2015 and 2022, there has not been a single year between 2017 and 2022 when a natural calamity—whether cyclone, flood, or landslide—did not lash it. Some ecological issues contributing to the current catastrophe include widespread deforestation, with 62 percent of Wayanad's forests having disappeared between 1950 and 2018; ceaseless soil erosion, made more relentless by rainwater seeping into loose topsoil, which reduces soil cohesion and contributes to landslides; and soil piping, the formation of underground tunnels because of subsurface soil erosion. The Puthumala landslide scarred Wayanad with extensive soil piping, which aggravated these landslides.

Climate change is worsening the situation, especially with more flash floods and landslips being triggered by merciless monsoons. As climate scientists have revealed, the extreme warming of the Arabian Sea has created deep cloud systems, which result in brief spells of ruthlessly intense rainfall, making Kerala yet more vulnerable to landslides. The 'heavy rain' predicted for the area was 52-200 mm over a week; instead, 522 mm fell in a matter of hours, far more than the saturated soil could absorb. The hill just collapsed.

A day after tragedy struck Wayanad, I wrote to Home Minister Amit Shah, urging him to declare this upheaval a 'Calamity of Severe Nature' in pursuance of Paragraph 8.1 of the Members of Parliament Local Area Development Scheme guidelines. This will entitle all of India's MPs—543 in the Lok Sabha and 250 in the Rajya Sabha—to contribute, if they so wish, up to ₹1 crore from their MPLADS funds for extracting Wayanad from the jaws of devastation. (As of now, only the MP of this constituency is allowed to deploy funds, but there is no MP currently, and no by-election has been called). I have yet to receive a response from the government.

Yet one thing is evident: we need far more rigorous, reliable, and real-time forecasts of such catastrophes in order to evacuate residents from the epicentre, bolster existing infrastructure and build emergency structures, and enter a vigorous state of preparedness. For far too long, we have been relying on remote sensing technologies, but these have proven inadequate. Remote sensing deploys deep learning, among other techniques, to unearth the mysteries of a region's topography, hydrology, vegetation and other geographic vagaries. Satellites built for this purpose snap pictures of the area, gathering every detail, from water and soil to vegetation and rocks.

When pieced together, these snapshots create a comprehensive map. Then deep learning comes into play, building predictive models that highlight regions prone to ecological disasters. The trouble, of course, is that much like predictive models built by artificial intelligence, the results are not foolproof. And satellites cannot see that well beneath the surface.

Once and for all, we ought to learn the right lessons from Wayanad and move towards on-ground sensor grids, capable of anticipating landslides. That the internet is now awash with high-resolution images tracing the horrific course of the Wayanad cataclysm is perhaps ironic. Released by the NRSC after the landslide, these 'before-and-after' images illustrate that while remote sensing can guide us in retrospect, it may fail to awaken us to the imminence of a tragedy until after people have perished. I hope that the gruesomeness of these landslides has roused us from our slumber, compelling us to move beyond our existing early warning systems to adopt forecasting methods that are truly credible. And tough decisions are still pending about the degree of human activity permissible in such areas.

Should we fail to do this, Wayanad would become yet another natural calamity from which we have learnt nothing.

IS INDIA READY TO WELCOME CHINESE CAPITAL AGAIN?

BISWAJIT DHAR

Former professor, Jawaharlal Nehru University and Vice President, Council for Social Development

THE Economic Survey for 2023-24 sprang a surprise by making a strong pitch for Chinese investments in India, indicating a turn from the government's anti-China stance of the past four years during which relations hit a new low. Though the Survey's views are attributed to the chief economic advisor (CEA), the finance minister subsequently lent support, signalling a clear policy shift.

The CEA and his team tried to soften the shock of the sudden change in stance by harping on the 'China plus one strategy', which involves reducing the excessive dependence on China-led production networks. However, several developments, including some amendments in India's tariff structure included in the recent budget proposals are pointers to improving economic relations between the neighbours.

The relations fell to a low in 2020 following Chinese incursions in the Galwan valley. India swiftly responded by taking a slew of measures aimed at restricting participation of Chinese companies in India. The first of these came in March 2020 through the announcement that companies of a country "that shares land border with India or where the beneficial owner of an investment into India is situated in or is a citizen of any such country" would be subject to government scrutiny before they can invest in the country. Alongside, a large number of Chinese apps were banned.

However, the major problem was India's high degree of import dependence on China. This was being viewed with concern especially because of the security implications of importing increasing quantities of Chinese electronic goods and critical components. For instance, in 2018-19, over 90 percent of India's mobile and personal computer imports were from China. Equally disconcerting was the high level of import dependence on active pharmaceutical ingredients, or intermediates for several critical medicines produced in India. China was almost the only source for streptomycin, ciprofloxacin, amoxicillin and rifampicin, used for treating bacterial infections.

This import dependence in critical materials was a symptom of the failing health of India's manufacturing sector, whose share of the GDP has been stuck around 16-17 percent for decades. Though recommendations were being made for strengthening manufacturing at least since 2006, the first steps towards this end were taken only in the wake of the Galwan conflict. The production linked incentive (PLI) scheme was initiated covering the electronics and pharmaceutical sectors. Over time, the scheme was extended to cover 14 industries, including ones for the green energy transition and for ushering in 'Industry 4.0', or new-age smart manufacturing.

Though the PLI scheme was expected to reduce import dependence on China, its tardy implementation meant that this objective was not realised. In most industries—with the notable exception of mobile phones—planned augmentation of capacities has not been realised. Moreover, it is too early to say whether the capacities in place can stand up to global competition.

AFP

Though diplomatic relations have hit a low after China's incursions at Galwan, the trade balance has worsened for India. Now the finance minister has backed the Economic Survey's suggestion of shifting India's stance on Chinese investments. What does it say about the manufacturing schemes aimed at self-reliance?

Meanwhile, imports from China have increased rapidly. The department of commerce reported between 2020-21 and 2023-24, Chinese imports had increased nearly 56 percent, while Chinese customs administration reported the country's exports to India had increased 65 percent. Interestingly, both authorities reported that India's exports to China had decreased—by 21 percent in the Indian count and 16 percent by the Chinese calculation. So, it was China decreasing its dependence on India.

It is in the backdrop that the policy shift towards Chinese foreign direct investment (FDI) proposed in the Economic Survey should be read. The Survey makes three arguments in favour of attracting FDI from China. First, it argues that FDI inflows "from China can help in increasing India's global supply chain participation along with a push to exports". Second, it says that relying on Chinese FDI "seems more promising for boosting India's exports to the US, similar to how East Asian economies did in the past". Finally, the Survey opines that "as the US and Europe shift their immediate sourcing away from China, it is more effective to have Chinese companies invest in India and then export the products to these markets, rather than importing from China, adding minimal value, and then re-exporting them".

Thus, in just four years, the official sentiment seems to have deviated from the narrative of an Atmanirbhar Bharat becoming a global manufacturing hub on its own strength to one that will be partly dependent on Chinese capital for global engagements. More importantly, the views expressed in the Economic Survey appear to have resonated in the Union Budget proposals in two ways. First, the finance minister made no mention of the PLI scheme in her speech when the general expectation was that she would prioritise its re-orientation. Second, critical minerals such as lithium, nickel, cobalt and vanadium, among others, used for the production of batteries, space vehicles and nuclear reactors, can now be imported duty-free, while import duty on mobile phones have been reduced from 20 percent to 15 percent. These are possibly the first steps to incentivise Chinese producers to invest in India.

Does this imply that the commendable ambitions written into the PLI scheme and Atmanirbhar Bharat Abhiyan to transform India into a strong, independent and globally competitive manufacturing hub are passé? The answer may become apparent in the next few months.

Shocking rule

Ref: 100gms bury Vinesh's medal dream (Aug 8). The whole nation was in a state of disbelief that 100g extra deprived Indian athlete Vinesh Phogat of her medal. People in suits and authority were quick to say 'rules are rules'. It is typical of sports like wrestling, boxing, karate etc to have this rule for athletes so their strength is matched. But if that is the case, basketball players also should be segregated as per height.

Conspiracy hint

An entire nation is heartbroken due to the disqualification of Vinesh Phogat. The disqualification looks conspiratorial on two grounds. One, the ruling was announced hours after she entered the final, just before playing. Two, her being overweight by 100g was too small to disqualify her. No drugs caused the increase. Metabolic activities of the body are bound to vary weight now and then. A mere 100g will not affect the opponent.

The exasperated photograph of Vinesh Phogat with P T Usha reflects how badly she was shaken at the turn of events. No one, including her rivals, would have thought this kind of fate would befall on her. The bold, courageous and resilient Vinesh resigning to stoicism is a shock to everyone.

Unrest in Bangla a concern: CDS

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

Chief of Defence Staff General Anil Chauhan speaks at the FICCI conference in New Delhi on Thursday | EXPRESS

CHIEF of Defence Staff (CDS) General Anil Chauhan on Thursday said the unrest in Bangladesh is a concern for India as the regime change there comes amid tensions on borders with other countries.

"India has its own share of security challenges; we have a proxy war waged by Pakistan in Jammu and Kashmir, whose sudden escalation we are now seeing in south of Pir Panjal," General Chauhan said while speaking at the 'Ammo India' conference organised here by the Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce and Industry (FICCI).

"The prolonged border dispute with China is yet to abate. There are two major security challenges that we face. The instability in our neighbourhood is another cause of concern for us," he said.

The CDS said the global geopolitical environment is in a state of flux. "We are passing through an era of big global disruptions. Amidst the vagaries of the volatility, uncertainty, complexity and ambiguity of the world, the global arms industry is grappling with a seemingly insurmountable problem of widening demand and supply gap," he stressed.

The CDS gave examples of Ukraine-Russia conflict along with the turmoil in Libya, Syria, Yemen and Armenia region. "The world is in the most violent phase of its existence since World War II," he said.

"The global security environment has been altered by two major wars that are not only intense but also have been protracted. However, there are also a number of other conflicts raging across other parts of the world, be it Myanmar, Sudan, Sahel region or Congo. The wars in Libya, Syria, Yemen and Armenia may have settled down for the time being but a lasting peace is still elusive," CDS said.

A strong armed force backed by a strong defence industrial sector is a 'sine qua non' for the nation state, he said.

"For a large nation like India, with plenitudes of security problems, it cannot remain dependent on foreign imports of war fighting and sustenance, especially in an environment where the global security and government are in a state of flux and we have live borders at our hand," General Chauhan said.

He said the global turmoil and India's own share of security challenges have come as an opportunity for the domestic defence industry to bolster manufacturing capabilities to make the country a net exporter. "India's quest for indigenisation and atmanirbharta (self-reliance) is central to maintaining this strategic autonomy," said the CDS.

"This whole concept of atma nirbharta is more than just about defence manufacturing. If we have to translate atmanirbharta only in defence or ammunition manufacturing, it is complete sovereignty over the product cycle right from its design, its development to manufacturing, induction to sustenance and even to its end of life. That means a complete womb to tomb kind of approach," he said.

Himanta says no illegal migration by minorities via Assam border

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

ASSAM Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma on Thursday said the state's border with Bangladesh is secure, and there have been no illegal border crossings by minorities facing attacks amid ongoing unrest.

He informed media that the Assam government has not received any instruction from the Centre to allow entry to these people. "On the contrary, it has issued directions to us to keep the border completely sealed," Sarma stated.

He expressed confidence that the Centre would pressure the new government in Bangladesh, both politically and diplomatically, to ensure the safety of the lives and properties of the minorities.

"The issue cannot be resolved by bringing 20-30 people to India. The solution will come by ensuring their safety in Bangladesh. There is the United Nations, and I am sure the Government of India will solve the matter diplomatically," he said.

"Discussing it excessively in the media will send a negative message to Bangladesh and result in further persecution of Hindus. The Government of India has instructed us not to talk much about it and to maintain patience," he added.

'Act before it's too late': HC to govt on Bangladeshi influx

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

THE Jharkhand High Court, while hearing a PIL on Thursday seeking probe on Bangladeshi intrusion changing the demography of Santhal Pargana, reprimanded the Centre and asked it to act before it is too late.

Disappointed over the Centre's failure in filing an affidavit in this regard, the court wondered whether the government would act only after the infiltrators enter the country.

Earlier, on July 3, the court had directed the state government to identify the infiltrators and prepare an action plan to send them back. The PIL has been filed by a Jamshedpur-based social activist, Daniel Danish.

According to the petitioner's advocate Rajeev Kumar, besides asking the Centre to be more vigilant in light of the coup in Bangladesh, the court also directed the Intelligence Bureau to submit a sealed report in this regard.

The Director of Intelligence Bureau, Director General of Border Security Force, Chief Election Commissioner of India and Director General of Unique Identification Authority of India were also issued notices seeking their response, Kumar said.

The court also expressed strong displeasure about the Deputy Commissioner of the six districts of Santhal Pargana failing to reply to the court's order.

Kumar added that the Centre was asked to stop the infiltrators and those who have already infiltrated to be sent back. The case will be heard next on August 22.

Earlier, it was explained to the high court how intrusion has started changing the demography of Santhal Pargana. The court was told that members of a banned outfit in Bangladesh, under a planned conspiracy, has been marrying tribal girls in the area and contesting panchayat elections.

Ruckus in RS as Kharge not allowed to speak on Phogat, Dhankhar leaves chair

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

AN uproar erupted in the Rajya Sabha on Thursday over the disqualification of wrestler Vinesh Phogat from the Olympics as Chairman Jagdeep Dhankhar did not allow Opposition MPs to raise the issue. Dhankhar left the House for sometime after heated clashes.

The din started developing in the House when Congress president and Leader of Opposition Mallikarjun Kharge sought to raise the Phogat disqualification issue but Chairman Dhankhar did not allow it. "It is an important issue. It is not an issue of a particular individual," Kharge said. He wanted to know "who is behind" the disqualification. However, Dhankhar did not allow Kharge to raise the issue.

In the meantime, TMC leader Derek O'Brien stood up to raise his point, but could not be heard because of uproar in the House. To this Dhankar cautioned the TMC member, saying "You are shouting at the Chair. Your conduct is ugliest in the House. I condemn your actions. Next time I will show you the door." As uproar continued, Opposition parties staged a walkout.

Entire nation is feeling the pain from the President to the Prime Minister to myself and many more. Everyone is sharing that situation, but to... politicise it is the greatest disrespect to that girl. That girl has a long way to go," Dhankhar said.

Leader of the House and BJP president J P Nadda also condemned the behaviour of Opposition members. He said the whole country is behind Phogat and even the Prime Minister has described the wrestler as "champion of champions".

After Nadda spoke, Dhankhar expressed his anguish on the conduct of Opposition and left the House. He later returned to chair the Question Hour.

One nation one poll implementation needs constitution amendment: Govt

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

THE implementation of 'One nation, One election' would require amendments to the Constitution of India as per the recommendations of the Ram Nath Kovind committee, the Centre informed Rajya Sabha on Thursday.

The decision regarding implementation of the high-level committee's recommendations is contingent upon examination of various aspects including legal and constitutional aspects, said Union Law Minister Arjun Ram Meghwal said.

The Modi government had appointed the Kovind panel in September 2023 to examine the feasibility of holding simultaneous elections for Lok Sabha, state assemblies and local bodies. However, several experts said that to pass the amendments, the government should have two-third majority in the House.

Replying to a question on the current status of the 'One Nation One Election' proposal and the key challenges identified by the government in its implementation, Meghwal said that the committee has recommended that it would require amendments to the Constitution.

He said that the Kovind committee had submitted its report on simultaneous elections to the President on March 14, 2024. The committee invited viewpoints from various stakeholders. It held 65 meetings and after extensive deliberations, submitted its report, which the government has published on its official website, he said.

One of the key proposals was that a one-time transitory measure would be necessary to synchronise the Lok Sabha and assembly elections. The committee recommended that the President of India may, by a notification issued on the date of the first sitting of the Lok Sabha after a general election, bring into force the provision of this Article and that the date of the notification shall be called the 'Appointed Date'.

The tenure of all state legislative assemblies, constituted by elections after the Appointed Date and before the expiry of the full term of the Lok Sabha, shall be only for the period ending up to the subsequent general elections to the Lok Sabha. Thereafter, all general elections to the Lok Sabha and all assemblies shall be held together simultaneously.

The committee also recommended that an implementation group be constituted to look into the execution of its recommendations.

The rollout of 'simultaneous elections' will begin in 2029, if the newly elected government in 2024 accepts the Kovind committee's recommendations and introduces constitutional amendments in Parliament.

In essence, the tenures of several state assemblies would have to be curtailed or extended between 2024 and 2029 for this.

Panel's recommendation

The President of India may, by a notification issued on the date of the first sitting of the Lok Sabha after a general election, bring into force the provision of an Article. After this, the tenure of all state assemblies shall be only for the period ending up to the next Lok Sabha elections.

Buddhadeb Bhattacharya: A Marxist Morpheus who dreamt a different future

SHIKHA MUKERJEE
Journalist, Columnist

WEST Bengal's former Chief Minister Buddhadev Bhattacharya will be remembered as a leader who failed to convince voters about his vision for the state's economic transformation and presided over the end of the Left Front's 34-year rule. History will also remember him as one of the last iconic leaders of a bygone era of communism in the state.

As Mamata Banerjee struggles to find solutions to the growing pressure of unemployment and rising aspirations of a new generation, she is discovering that her politics is up against the glimpse of hope that came before. Even 13 years after the CPI(M)-led Left Front's ouster, Buddhadev is still considered a visionary leader who had the drive to attempt a makeover of the industrially-stagnant state by bringing in new companies and stemming the outflow of talent.

But that is not only how Bhattacharya is remembered. Like Morpheus, he has bequeathed a dream that hovers on the edge of Bengali consciousness. His legacy is the possibility that by some alchemy, the potential of the state's human and natural resources could be combined to make West Bengal great again.

Nostalgia about Kolkata's past and Bengal's wealth is integral to how Bengalis see themselves. In this milieu, Buddhadev's slogan "Do it now" ignited their imagination for a while by offering hope for a vibrant future. Combined with his quintessential bhadralok persona—including his love for Bengali and world literature, theatre and films, his politeness and his arrogance—Bhattacharya will continue to be an icon for every Bengali, regardless of his or her political preference.

Not for a moment will any Bengali think that Bhattacharya sold out to the seduction of capitalism even when he impatiently and obsessively pursued capital in India and across the world. In his memoir Phire Dekha (Looking Back), Bhattacharya explained his metamorphosis from puritan communist to a pragmatic chief minister: "As I embarked on the search for capital for investment in West Bengal's dream of a new industrial future, I worked hard to understand the changes that capitalism had undergone over the past 300 years in order to sustain its dominance over the world economy. China had embraced capitalism for its own purposes."

Armed with his resolve—"Having plunged in, we had to learn to swim to reach the shore"—Bhattacharya signed up with Tata Motors to set up a low-cost Nano car factory in Singur on National Highway 2 in 2006, immediately after he won his second term with a massive mandate of 235 seats out of the state assembly's 294. The mandate blinded him to the deep-rooted distrust of capitalists among Bengalis. He failed to convince his own party's leaders, cadres and supporters that giving up land, even fertile agricultural land, for industry would create wealth and opportunity for a larger number of people.

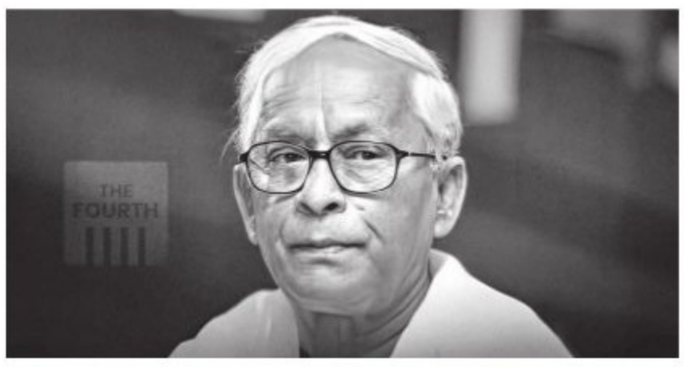
Banerjee stormed into the breach that had opened up within the CPI(M), and between the party and its voter base. A new chapter in the history of political turbulence in West Bengal was written at Bhattacharya's expense. Singur and Nandigram became part of modern India's lexicon of political violence and popular resistance, of governance failure and economic collapse.

Bhattacharya's dream of making West Bengal great again was not wholly his own. It was pursued by his predecessor Jyoti Basu, though far less aggressively. The New Industrial Policy of 1994 that set the stage was Basu's initiative. Having made slow progress till he retired in 2000, Basu handed over the task to Bhattacharya.

Buddhadev started out as a student leader. He was a founder member of the Democratic Youth Federation of India. In 1977, he became the information and culture minister in Jyoti Basu's first cabinet when he was 33 years old. In 1987, he became a minister for the second time. This was when he built the Nandan film complex, a Kolkata landmark and an institution that screened the best of Indian and world cinema. This was where Bhattacharya would spend his time after work till he became chief minister.

By 1997, Bhattacharya knew he would have to step into Basu's shoes. He was groomed first as the police minister and then as a deputy chief minister. Between 1997 and 2006, Bhattacharya arrived at several conclusions about how West Bengal's future should be shaped. These set him on a collision course with powerful interests like trade unions, government employee unions and the kisan front within the Left Front.

After the CPI(M)'s stunning defeat in 2011 and his own defeat from the Jadavpur constituency, Bhattacharya withdrew from the limelight for a while. He was diligent in attending party meetings till his health declined and he resigned from the politburo. House-bound by ill health, Bhattacharya, an ardent communist and faithful party man, distanced himself from day-to-day matters. But his shadow never faded over the state's political and intellectual landscape.



BUDDHADEV BHATTACHARYA FIRED THE IMAGINATION OF BENGALIS FOR A WHILE BY OFFERING THE HOPE OF ECONOMIC REVIVAL IN AN INDUSTRIALLY-STAGNANT STATE. HE WAS A COMMUNIST WHO PURSUED CAPITAL FOR HIS STATE WITHOUT GIVING IN TO THE SEDUCTION OF CAPITALISM. COMBINED WITH HIS QUINTESSENTIAL BHADRALOK PERSONA, INCLUDING HIS LOVE FOR LITERATURE, THEATRE AND FILMS, HIS POLITENESS AND HIS ARROGANCE, BHATTACHARYA WILL CONTINUE TO BE AN ICON FOR EVERY BENGALI

Yarn exports to Bangla take a hit

With the neighbouring country facing turmoil, exporters from Punjab stare at uncertainty

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

YARN manufacturers and exporters in Punjab are keeping a close eye on the political situation unfolding in Bangladesh. A lot is at stake — execution of orders worth ₹1,000 crore have been slowed down in the last few days, and payments stuck.

Punjab exports goods worth ₹3,120 crore per annum to Bangladesh. Of these, 80 per cent is yarn. The other exports include cycle parts, machine tools, auto parts and food products.

Talking to this newspaper, Amit Thapar, head of the Confederation of Indian Industry's northern region export committee and proprietor of Ganga Acrowools Limited in Ludhiana, said, "Punjab and Gujarat have big stakes in Bangladesh. From Punjab alone, ₹3,120 crore worth of goods are exported to Bangladesh every year, of which yarn has the highest share. In yarn, the biggest orders are for cotton yarns, followed by acrylic yarn and wool."

Thapar said the shortest and fastest means to deliver the consignment to Bangladesh is through trucks. "We export yarn through trucks to Bangladesh. It takes about four days to reach, and the product is offloaded in 8-9 days," he said.

There are about 50 agents in India who facilitate the export of yarn to Bangladesh, he said. "Of these, 4-5 big agents have their offices in Ludhiana. These agents have their offices and staff in Bangladesh as well. With the unrest in Bangladesh, a few of these offices have called their staff back to India. Meanwhile, goods worth ₹200-300 crore are estimated to be stuck at the border since Sunday and execution of orders worth ₹1,000 crore have been immediately slowed down. About 450-500 trucks go from India to Bangladesh through the Petrapole border, which is the largest land port in South Asia," Thapar said, adding that the truck movements have restarted from Thursday.

"We are in touch with our buyers, but the business has slowed down. If their units work to full capacity, then fine for us. Because there are big units, each employing 15,000-20,000 work force and get orders from other countries. Besides, the banks are open in Bangladesh, so payments are remitted on time," he said.

However, Thapar said the big worry is how the new government would view India — friendly, neutral or hostile. "And if the imports from India are affected or not," he added.

According to Bajrang Sharma, a leading transporter and owner of Goel Roadways, "There were temporary problems, as the trucks were stopped at the border from Sunday. But from Thursday morning, the movements have begun again after unloading took place in the factories of Bangladesh on Wednesday evening. But one has to wait and watch how the coming days are going to be."

Meanwhile, the situation has come as a blessing in disguise for the textile industry, said Sudershan Jain, president of Knitwear and Apparel Manufacturers Association of Ludhiana. "We have started getting enquiries from the US, Middle-East and Panama for export orders of woollen clothes, sweaters and t-shirts. It is expected that some garment orders will shift to India from Bangladesh. There are about 15,000 textile units in Ludhiana alone. For last one decade, we had been suffering losses due to government polices and cheap labour in Bangladesh. Their production cost is 15 per cent less than ours."

EC team in J&K to firm up Assembly election roadmap

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

LEADERS of political parties, after meeting with the Election Commission (EC) in Srinagar, expressed hope for the conduct of Assembly polls in J&K. They demanded a level playing field for all political parties and called for no administrative bias.

Chief Election Commissioner Rajiv Kumar and two Election Commissioners arrived in Srinagar today to review poll preparedness. The ECI team camped at SKICC, Srinagar, where they met representatives of various political parties including National Conference, Congress, PDP, J&K National Panthers Party, Bahujan Samaj Party, BJP, and others.

The political leaders demanded the holding of Assembly polls in J&K as per the deadline fixed by the Supreme Court. In December last year, the SC directed that Assembly polls in J&K should be held by September 30. "We told the EC that people in J&K want their own government. We emphasized that elections should be held in J&K, where the last Assembly poll was held 10 years ago. We also pointed out that since 2018 J&K has been under central rule and there is no justification for not holding Assembly polls as LS polls were recently held in J&K. We informed them that the Lt Governor and a few of his advisors and officers cannot rule J&K, which is a very sensitive state and confronts political, developmental, and security issues," NC leader Nasir Aslam Wani told reporters after his party's delegation met with the ECI.

He said the party demanded that a level playing field be provided to all parties without any bias by the administration. "Seeing the attitude of the EC and their assurances, we are hopeful that elections will be held soon and the SC deadline will be followed," Nasir said.

Mayawati changes strategy for polls

Having failed to win over the Muslim support in elections and facing a gradual rout in back-to-back elections, Bahujan Samaj Party chief Mayawati has now decided to replaced the 'M' in her traditional 'M-D' vote bank comprising Muslims and Dalits with 'Most backward Class and Dalit' formula. She has now decided to woo 'Most Backward Classes' under party's renewed 'M-D' formula which now stands for MBCs and Dalits. The party brass, in the prevailing political scenario, feels that MBCs and Dalits form a more formidable combination than Dalits and Muslims in terms of BSP's electoral fortunes in the by-polls.

Green tribute to Kakori Kand revolutionaries

It is the 'green way' to pay tributes to the revolutionaries of 'Kakori Kand' wherein they had looted the arms and ammunition being transported by the British government through train on August 9, 1924. The forest department has plans to create Shaheed Smriti Vatika in every district to commemorate 100 years of the Kakori train incident on August 9. The species of trees which can thrive in local soil and climatic conditions will be planted in the smirit vatikas. Moreover, the plants of a certain height will be planted so that their maintenance and survival is easier.

'Surya Mitras' to realise Modi's dream

In consonance with PM Surya Ghar Yojna focusing on the use of solar energy in illuminating the houses and buildings in order to cut the power bills, the UP government has planned to train over 30,000 youth from the state as 'Surya Mitras' to facilitate quick installation of solar panels on the rooftops of each household in the state. In fact,3000 Surya Mitras have already come up equipped with training as the first step towards the creation of a skilled workforce for solar projects. The Uttar Pradesh government has offered to contribute the installation of 25 lakh solar rooftops panels to the total nationwide target of one crore.

Maha poll yatra as parties draw up strategies

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

WITH Maharashtra assembly elections round the corner, all major political parties are hitting the road, by launching yatras for mass outreach.

Maharashtra deputy chief minister Ajit Pawar has launched Jan Samaan Yatra on Thursday. Ajit's NCP fought five seats during the Lok Sabha polls, but won only one. Ajit's NCP, which is facing a credibility crisis, have roped in a mega publicity agency to rejuvenate the cadre. The first phase of his yatra will be in Nasik in North Maharashtra, then go to western Maharashtra, Mumbai and Vidarbha.

The Sharad Pawar-led NCP(SP) has also announced 'Shiv Rajya Yatra' under the leadership of its Lok Sabha MP Amol Kolhe and state president Jayant Patil. The party had won eight out of the 10 it contested in Lok Sabha.

Meanwhile, Uddhav Thackeray's Shiv Sena faction has arranged the Shiv Sankalp Melava across the state. Thackeray has held the programmes in Pune and Sambhaji Nagar recently, and is likely to address more of them.

Lalu meets Shahabuddin's wife, eyes Muslim votes ahead of Bihar elections

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

RJD chief Lalu Prasad has embarked on consolidating Muslim votes ahead of Bihar assembly poll seemingly in fear of Hyderabad MP Asaduddin Owaisi's AIMIM and political strategist Prashant Kishor's proposed party cutting into the minority votes.

A clear sign of it became visible when Lalu, along with former deputy chief minister Tejashwi Prasad Yadav, met former RJD MP from Siwan Mohammad Shahabuddin's wife Heena Shahab at a party MLC's residence in the state capital. The meeting was reportedly held after RJD MLAs from Siwan impressed upon Lalu that channels of communication should be reopened with Heena Shahab, who was unhappy over the shabby treatment meted out after her husband's death due to Covid-19 in Delhi's Tihar jail in 2021.

Heena Shahab had contested the 2024 Lok Sabha election from Siwan as an Independent candidate but lost to the JD(U) candidate. Still, she managed to garner 29.42% vote share, proving her political clout despite it being her fourth consecutive defeat from the seat.

On three earlier occasions, she had fought elections on the RJD ticket. Her performance in the last Lok Sabha election apparently convinced Lalu to win back the support of the Shahabuddin's family which still has a strong support base not only in Siwan district but also in adjoining Saran and Gopalganj districts.

Lalu's fear about his party's lack of capability to hold sway over Muslim votes stems from two factors — first AIMIM candidates emerging victorious on five seats in Muslim-dominated Seemanchal region of the state in 2020 assembly election and political strategist Prashant Kishor's endeavour to win over Muslims.

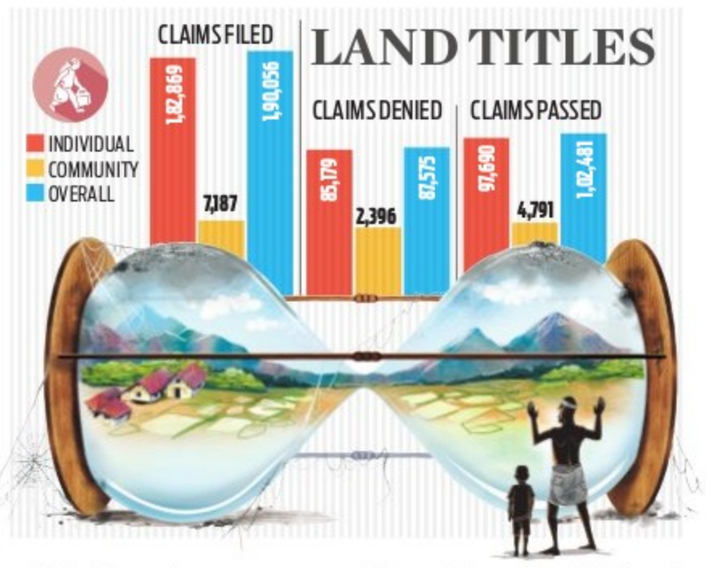
40% claims under Forest Rights Act rejected in Gujarat, says House data

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

MORE than 40 per cent of the land title claims by the tribals under the Forest Rights Act (FRA) have been rejected in Gujarat, according to data disclosed by the government in the Rajya Sabha.

On August 7, Rajya Sabha MP P Wilson queried about the details of individual and community title claims made and approved under the FRA for STs and other traditional forest dwellers over the past five years. In response, the ministry of tribal affairs released statistics on the approved and rejected FRA claims nationwide.

"In Gujarat, of the 182,869 tribal land claims filed under the Forest Rights Act, 85,179 have been denied by various administrations. Additionally, while 7,187 communities requested land under the FRA, only 4,791 communities received approval, with 2,396 community claims rejected. Overall, out of 190,056 individual and community FRA claims, 87,575 have been rejected and 102,481 have been approved," according to the government response.



This data underscores a major issue in the FRA implementation as the state prepares to mark World Tribal Day on August 9. "The government is using a single excuse for either not granting land to tribals or rejecting claims under FRA: General reasons for rejections reported by state governments include non-occupation of forest land prior to December 13, 2005, multiple claims, and insufficient documentary evidence," Gujarat Congress MLA and tribal leader Anant Patel said.

"If the gram sabha and the forest panel approve a claim, how can the government still reject it? The government argues that the land is not being cultivated, but if villagers provide written proof of cultivation, it's unclear why the claims are denied. They are intentionally harassing tribals. They have forest land rights, yet are refused," Patel said.

Bangladesh plane grounded in Raipur for 9 years

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

IT'S been over nine years for a Bangladesh-based United Airways plane that made an emergency landing at Raipur and the airport authorities apparently seems perplexed as they didn't receive any feedback to their series of high-priority communication sent to officials of the private carrier and the neighbouring country that now seems in turmoil.

"Forget its take-off from the Chhattisgarh capital, the plane has virtually turned as a huge scrap not fit to fly. During all these years, we haven't received any concrete response or information from Bangladesh regarding the parked aircraft here", a senior officer of Airport Authority of India (AAI) Regional Headquarter told this newspaper.

The parking charges to be paid by the private carrier keep piling up.

"The parking fee is ₹320 per hour. And the charges for the Bangladesh plane have already touched ₹ 4 crore", he added.

The United Airways flight with 173 passengers on board on its way from Dhaka to Muscat made an emergency landing at Swami Vivekananda airport in Raipur on 7 August 2015 following a technical snag and failure of one of its engines.

The plane took off from Dhaka and as it entered the Varanasi-Raipur airspace, the operating crew reported low engine pressure, which was followed by a massive explosion.

"We were at 32,000 feet when a part of the engine caught fire and broke off. We could hear the sound, the vibration, the swing as the aircraft descended. We were lucky to have an engineer on board that day," Captain Shahbaz Imtiaz Khan, the pilot on the United Airways flight, had said.

The aircraft engineering team from Bangladesh fixed the problem three years later, tested the plane and made it into a flight-ready condition.

But later no action was initiated to expedite the process by the officials who were contacted in Bangladesh for the aircraft to be flown back to Dhaka.

The airport officials here are evidently clueless on what recourse the AAI or the Directorate General of Civil Aviation might initiate.

"Nobody in AAI ever thought that if a plane from any foreign country is left behind in India for long, what rules should then be applied to address such a situation. There is no regulation existing. The AAI and the DGCA (a regulatory body in civil aviation) are likely to take decisions at the policy level regarding the fate of the Bangladesh plane parked in Raipur", the officer stated.

The company that operated the grounded Bangladesh plane has shut down its flight services.

The parked plane is not affecting the routine operations in the Raipur airport.

Parking charges mounted to ₹4 crore

The parking charges to be paid by the private carrier keep piling up. "The parking fee is `320 per hour. And the charges for the Bangladesh plane have already touched ` 4 crore", a senior officer of Airport Authority of India (AAI) Regional Headquarter added

2013 promise of Doppler radar still a distant dream in flood-hit Kedarnath

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

THE rugged terrain of Kedarnath continues to pose a challenge for meteorologists, making accurate weather forecasting a daunting task. Unpredictable rain and snowfall patterns have left experts scrambling for answers.

In the wake of the devastating 2013 disaster, the government pledged to install Doppler radars to enhance weather forecasting capabilities in the region. However, 11 years on, the project remains mired in the tender process, sparking concern among geologists and meteorologists.

Geologists and meteorologists have expressed concern over the delay, emphasizing the necessity of installing Doppler radar to improve weather forecasting in the region.

Prof Yashpal Sundriyal, former Head of the Geology Department at HNB Garhwal University, Srinagar, emphasized the need for accurate weather forecasting in the Kedarnath region during an exclusive interview with this daily.

Importance

Prof Yashpal Sundriyal, former Head of the Geology Department at HNB Garhwal University, Srinagar, said th doppler will provide accurate weather forecasts, enabling timely safety measures in case of natural disasters

"The flow of the Mandakini and Saraswati rivers in Garhwal has increased significantly," Prof Sundriyal noted. "Moreover, the region's weather has become a puzzle even for experts and scientists, leading to extensive damage during disasters."

He stressed the importance of installing Doppler radar in the region to provide accurate weather forecasts, enabling timely safety measures in case of natural disasters. "It is crucial for the government to take immediate action and set up Doppler radar systems to mitigate the risks associated with unpredictable weather patterns," Prof Sundriyal added.

Speaking to this newspaper, Dr Manish Mehta, a renowned glaciologist from the Wadia Institute of Himalayan Geology (WIHG), emphasized the intricacies of understanding the Himalayan region. "This area is extremely complicated and critical, with frequent occurrences of cloudbursts," he explained.

According to Dr Mehta, the soil in Uttarakhand's Himalayan region is fragile and young, making it prone to landslides and disasters. He attributes the increased frequency of these events to global climate change, which has significantly altered rain patterns in the area.

IS mass murder plan nixes Taylor Swift's concert

VIENNA

A 19-year-old Islamic State sympathiser planned a suicide attack at a Taylor Swift concert in Vienna designed to kill many people, the country's intelligence agency said on Thursday.

Austrian authorities detained two suspects on Wednesdsay for allegedly plotting to attack this week's Vienna concerts by the US star, which organisers cancelled at the last minute.

The 19-year-old main suspect had confessed, saying he "intended to carry out an attack using explosives and knives," domestic intelligence agency head Omar Haijawi-Pirchner told a news conference. "His aim was to kill himself and a large number of people during the concert... either today or tomorrow," he added. The concerts were to run from Thursday to Saturday. The second suspect, a 17-year-old Austrian, was employed at a facility management company which would have "provided services" at the Ernst Happel Stadium where Swift was to perform, said Haijawi-Pirchner. The younger suspect, who has so far refused to talk to authorities, was "in the area" of the stadium where he was detained, said Haijawi-Pirchner.

According to Interior Minister Gerhard Karner, a "tragedy was averted". "The situation was very serious", he added, particularly in view of a recent attack at a Taylor Swift themed event in Britain, where three girls were killed in UK.

Explosives and detonators were found in a search of the main suspect's apartment, authorities said.

Austria's top security chief Franz Ruf told reporters the two suspects had recently made changes in their private lives. The main suspect, an Austrian with Northern Macedonian roots, had changed his appearance and adapted it to IS propaganda, he said.

First task is to restore law and order: Yunus

Sworn in as the chief advisor; leads 16-member council of advisers

DHAKA

NOBEL laureate Muhammad Yunus on Thursday took oath as the head of an interim government, replacing Sheikh Hasina who abruptly resigned and fled to India leaving the country in turmoil following deadly protests against her government over a controversial quota system in jobs.

Yunus, 84, was administered the oath of office by President Mohammed Shahabuddin at a ceremony at the presidential palace 'Bangabhaban'.

A 16-member council of advisers was announced to assist Yunus in running the state's affairs. Md. Nahid Islam and Asif Mahmud, two key organisers of the Anti-Discrimination Student Movement, were also part of the advisory council.

Women's rights activist Farida Akhtar, right-wing party Hefazat-e-Islam's deputy chief AFM Khalid Hossain, Grameen Telecom trustee Nurjahan Begum, freedom fighter Sharmeen Murshid, chairman of Chittagong Hill Tracts Development Board Supradip Chakma, Prof Bidhan Ranjan Roy and former foreign secretary Touhid Hossain are among the advisory council members.

Yunus was sworn in as the chief advisor — a position equivalent to prime minister.

Roy, Chakma and Bir Pratik Faruk-e-Azam could not take the oath as they were outside Dhaka. The interim government will lead the country for a certain period and oversee the election to transition power to an elected government.

Ahead of taking the oath, Yunus promised to deliver a government which assures safety to its citizens and urged them to assist him in rebuilding the protest-torn country.

Army chief General Waker-Uz-Zaman, senior officials, student leaders and civil society members welcomed him at the airport. "Today is a day of our pride,' he said at an emotional press conference at Dhaka's Hazrat Shahjalal International Airport after his arrival. "We have got independence for the second time. We have to protect this independence."

Yunus expressed gratitude to the youth who made the protest movement against Sheikh Hasina successful and said he would like to stress first to "save the country from violence so that we can move forward on the path that the students have shown us."

"If you have faith in me and trust me, then ensure that there will be no attack anywhere in the country. This is our first responsibility," he said at the crowded press briefing. PTI

Policemen slowly returning to work

Policemen in Bangladesh were slowly returning to work from Thursday in response to the call by the newly-appointed chief, the official media reported. Following the fall of the Sheikh Hasina government, several police stations were attacked and set on fire, leading to many officers abandoning their stations. A few police personnel were killed in the students movement violence. On Wednesday, the newly-appointed IG, Md Mainul Islam, ordered officers to join their units.

Locals spend sleepless nights to guard against robbery, looting

DHAKA

SEVERAL residents across Bangladesh spent a sleepless night as they gathered in groups to guard the streets amid fears of robbery and looting by criminals in the violence-hit country, where an interim government headed by Nobel laureate Muhammad Yunus took oath.

Security concerns have gripped the country since Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina's ouster on Monday as police observed a work abstention, citing fears for their safety amid reports of deadly attacks on security personnel.

The chaos and fear created by the deadly protests remained. Gangs of criminals have been looting and robbing homes in the absence of law enforcers over the last two days.

Many residents spent a sleepless night on Wednesday amid fears of robbery and looting. From one end of Dhaka to another, particularly Uttara to Mohammadpur, people were concerned about their safety.

Facebook users were posting in different groups and streaming live. Residents in many areas, including in Uttara and Mohammadpur, formed neighbourhood watch groups to stand guard, bdnews24.com news portal reported.

Nazvi Islam, a part-time teacher at Dhaka University and resident of Mohammadpur's Bosila, said that robbers had terrorised the area on Tuesday night. Mosques were regularly making announcements, asking everyone to remain on alert.

On Wednesday night, residents gathered in groups to guard the streets with sticks and bats. Hundreds of students from the local madrasa also came to guard the area. Most ATMs were out of cash and even many bank branches were running low on cash, The Daily Star reported. PTI

Allies condemn Israeli minister's jibe on starving Gazan population

MOSCOW

ISRAEL's Western allies have condemned remarks by the country's far-right finance minister who suggested that the starvation of Gaza's population of more than 2 million Palestinians "might be just and moral" until hostages captured in Hamas' Oct. 7 attack on southern Israel are returned home.

Finance Minister Bezalel Smotrich said in a speech on Monday that Israel had no choice but to send humanitarian aid into Gaza.

"It's not possible in today's global reality to manage a war — no one will allow us to starve 2 million people, even though that might be just and moral until they return the hostages," he said at a conference in support of Jewish settlements.

Bezalel Smotrich

Smotrich, a key partner in Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's governing coalition, supports the reoccupation of Gaza, the rebuilding of Jewish settlements that were removed in 2005, and what he describes as the voluntary migration of large numbers of Palestinians out of the territory. The EU on Wednesday condemned his remarks, noting that the "deliberate starvation of civilians is a war crime." EU foreign policy chief Josep Borrell called the remarks "beyond ignominious," saying "it demonstrates, once again, his contempt for international law and for basic principles of humanity."

David Lammy, Britain's new foreign secretary, said "there can be no justification for Minister Smotrich's remarks." AP

Earthquake hits Japan, causing minor damages

TOKYO

A powerful earthquake with a magnitude of 7.1 shook southern Japan on Thursday, but no major damage was reported and only relatively minor tsunami waves lashed the coast.

The quake hit the southern island of Kyushu at a depth of 25 kms, the United States Geological Survey said. The USGS had initially reported two strong quakes, with magnitudes of 6.9 and 7.1, but later said there had only been one tremor.

The Japan Meteorological Agency (JMA) also said there was one quake with a magnitude of 7.1. Broadcaster NHK showed footage of traffic lights shaking violently in Miyazakion Kyushu's southeast coast.

"The surface of the sea is wavering. I felt an intense jolt when the quake happened which lasted for between 30 seconds and a minute," one local official told NHK. Government spokesman Yoshimasa Hayashi said officials were notified of one minor injury and two other unspecified injuries.

No disruptions to infrastructure, including electricity, water and telecommunications, were reported, Hayashi added.

Unverified footage shared on social media showed only minor damage, including dishes and books that had fallen off shelves and a small wall that had collapsed in a car park.

Tsunamis of up to one metre were initially expected to arrive or had arrived in some coastal areas in Kyushu and Shikoku islands, the JMA said. The agency also said a small tsunami was possible in Chiba, about 850 kms from the epicentre. "Tsunamis will strike repeatedly. Please do not enter the sea or approach the coast until the warning is lifted," the JMA said.However, tsunamis of only 50 centimetres and 20 centimetres were confirmed to have hit some places. AFP

Russian army's fight against Kyiv incursion enters third day

MOSCOW

RUSSIA's army was fighting a major Ukrainian border incursion for the third day running, Moscow said on Thursday, with independent analysts saying Kyiv's troops had advanced up to 10 kms into Russia.

Pro-Kyiv forces stormed into Russia's southwestern Kursk region on Tuesday morning, deploying around 1,000 troops and more than two dozen armoured vehicles and tanks, according to the Russian army.

It appears to be the most significant of several cross-border attacks mounted by Ukraine since Russia launched its full-scale military offensive in February 2022.

Russia's defence ministry said Thursday its troops were "continuing to destroy" armed Ukrainian units and were using air strikes, rocket and artillery fire to try to push them back. It said it had rushed in reserves and was "thwarting attempts to break through" deeper into the Kursk region.

The independent US-based Institute for the Study of War said Ukraine had made significant territorial gains in the first two days of the incursion. "Ukrainian forces have made confirmed advances up to 10 kms into Russia's Kursk Oblast amid continued mechanised offensive operations on Russian territory," it said in its latest update.

"The current confirmed extent and location of Ukrainian advances in Kursk Oblast indicate that Ukrainian forces have penetrated at least two Russian defensive lines and a stronghold," it added.

Kyiv has not officially taken responsibility for the operation, but an aide to Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky said Moscow was to blame for the incursion. AFP

RBI guv warns lenders against top-up loan push

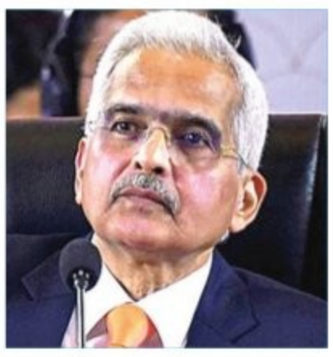
BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

WITH the lenders pushing top-up loans like never before, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has flagged this as a potential risk for the system and asked all lenders to review suchpractices and take remedial action.

Top-up loans are those credits which a borrower can draw down over and above the existing loan. This cuts the processing and underwriting times for the lender and also for the borrower. But this unbridled loan push can create asset troubles for the system.

It was the same time of loan practices that spawned the 2007-08 global financial crisis, which emanated in the US, where lenders were encouraging borrowers to use their existing loan effectively as an ATM.

"Our attention has been drawn to home equity loans, or top-up housing loans as they are called, which have been growing at a brisk pace. Certain banks and non-banks have been offering top-up loans on other collateralised loans like gold loans. It is noticed that the regulatory prescriptions relating to loan to value (LTV) ratio, risk weights and monitoring of end-use of funds are not being strictly adhered to by certain entities and such practices may lead to loaned funds being deployed in unproductive segments or for speculative purposes," RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das while announcing a slew of regulatory measures as part of the monetary policy announcement on Thursday.



it is necessary that banks and other financial institutions build appropriate risk management frameworks in their IT arrangements to maintain operational resilience.

Shaktikanta Das

Banks and non-banks are well-advised to review such practices and take remedial action, he added.

On the recent global software outage, which affected businesses in many countries, Das said the outage has demonstrated how a minor technical change, if it goes haywire, can wreak havoc on a global scale. It also showed the fast-growing dependence on big-techs and third-party technology solution providers.

"In this background, it is necessary that banks and other financial institutions build appropriate risk management frameworks in their IT, cyber security and third-party outsourcing arrangements to maintain operational resilience," he said.

On the rising foreign exchange reserves, he said it has reached a new high of $675 billion as of August 2. Overall, the country's external sector remains resilient as key indicators continue to improve, he added.

Food prices can't be overlooked for inflation targeting, says Das

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

The public at large understands inflation in terms of food than the other components of headline inflation.

RBI Governor

NSO survey is underway

Shaktikanta Das noted that the NSO survey is currently underway, and a decision will be made in due course based on the data collected, in collaboration with the government and the RBI.

CONTRARY to the views expressed in the Economic Survey regarding the exclusion of food from retail inflation calculations, RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das on Thursday emphasised that food inflation cannot be overlooked due to its significant contribution to the overall consumption basket.

According to Das, at the forefront of RBI's focus is headline inflation, with food inflation accounting for approximately 46% of the consumer price index (CPI). "... Further, the public at large understands inflation more in terms of food inflation than the other components of headline inflation. Therefore, we cannot and should not become complacent merely because core inflation has fallen considerably," he said.

Das clarified that while the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) might overlook elevated food inflation if it is deemed temporary, the current situation of sustained high food inflation requires the committee to take it seriously. He said that the MPC must stay alert to prevent spillover effects or second-round impacts from ongoing food inflation to maintain the credibility achieved through the monetary policy efforts.

The Economic Survey, released prior to the Budget, advocated for a revision of the central bank's inflation targeting framework by excluding food inflation. It argued that India's inflation targeting should focus on overall inflation minus food prices, as fluctuations in food prices are frequently driven by supply factors rather than demand. The Survey suggested that it may be beneficial to reconsider whether India's inflation targeting framework should exclude food inflation.

Regarding the weight of food in the CPI, Das said the existing CPI basket and the weight assigned to core, fuel, and food were based on data from 2011.

RBI increases UPI payment limit from ₹1 lakh to ₹5 lakh

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

BANKING regulator Reserve Bank of India (RBI) is making the Unified Payment Interface (UPI) more user-friendly. In a latest move to facilitate higher payments through UPI, the RBI proposes to increase the per transaction limit under the payment system from ₹1 lakh to ₹5 lakh. According to the RBI, the increased limit will further ease tax payments by consumers through UPI.

In another proposal, the RBI plans allowing delegated payments through the UPI to further deepen the reach and usage of digital payments. "This (delegated payment) would enable an individual (primary user) to allow another individual (secondary user) to make UPI transactions up to a limit from the primary user's bank account without the need for the secondary user to have a separate bank account linked to UPI," said the RBI while announcing its Monetary Policy on Thursday. In a couple of more user/borrower-centric announcements, the banking regulator has proposed a public repository of digital lending apps deployed by its regulated entities like banks and financial institutions. The move is aimed at curbing the problems arising from unauthorised digital lending apps. Banks and financial institutions will report and update information about their lending apps in this repository.

In yet another announcement, the RBI has proposed to increase the frequency of reporting of credit information by lenders to credit information companies to a fortnightly basis or at shorter intervals.

Weak listing gains signal cooling primary market

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

TWO of the country's high profile initial public offerings (IPOs) - Ola Electric and FirstCry – are expected to give subdued listing gain amidst broader market volatility and valuation concerns.

Shares of infrastructure company Ceigall India, which entered the bourses on Thursday, ended with a discount of nearly 4%, giving up all initial gains.

Ahead of its listing on Friday, Ola Electric shares were trading with a premium of ₹-3 in the unofficial grey market. Given the upper price band of ₹ 76, the stock is expected to list at ₹73, a discount of about 4%. Similarly, the grey market premium (GMP) of FirstCry's parent Brainbees Solutions Ltd has seen a continuous decline over the past few days. Last checked, FirstCry's shares were commanding a GMP of just 3%.

The high chances of three back-to-back subdued listings come as India's equity market has been under selling pressure since last Friday over weak global cues.

Market experts believe that current market conditions and increased scrutiny by the market regulator have made investors more vigilant and they have turned their focus towards quality stocks.

"Investors are becoming more cautious about valuations, particularly for new-age and loss-making companies. Companies that were once seen as having high growth potential are now facing scrutiny over their pricing. Investors might now be becoming more selective, prioritising quality over quantity," said Amit Goel, Co-Founder & Chief Global Strategist, Pace 360.

He added that the recent trend of declining GMPs for some high-profile IPOs raises concerns about the sustainability of the IPO boom.

Factors like global economic uncertainties and valuation concerns can influence investor appetite for IPOs. "While the current trend might indicate a temporary slowdown, it's too early to definitively say that the golden run is over. However, it's essential to remember that the IPO market is cyclical, with periods of high and low activity being normal," stated Goel.

LIC net up 9.6% as non-par business share more than doubles to 23.5%

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

NATIONAL insurer Life Insurance Corporation (LIC) has delivered a strong set of numbers with more than doubling of the more margin-yielding non-par products share to 23.52% in the June quarter from 10.22% in the year-ago period, which boosted the standalone net income by 9.61% to ₹10,544 crore for the reporting period, which also saw its market share improving.

The insurer's net premium income rose 16% to ₹ 1.14 lakh crore in the reporting quarter compared to ₹98,755 crore in the year ago period, boosting its AUM by over 16.22% to ₹53.59 lakh crore.

Even though it underwrote more policies during the quarter, the company has reported better solvency ratio at 1.99 up from 1.89 in the previous reporting period. This was partly because the company massively improved its non-performing assets which for the quarter plunged to 1.95% from 2.48%.

Addressing the media on Thursday, chief executive (who till recently was the chairman) Siddhartha Mohanty said the key annualised premium equivalent rose 21% y-o-y to ₹11,560 crore. Mohanty attributed the good set of numbers to stable margins and lower expenses ratio along with good gains from the market investment, which rose 1.35% on-year to ₹15,500 crore from ₹13,300 crore. Of its total AUM of ₹53.59 lakh crore, the Corporation invests 60% or ₹30 lakh crore in government securities.

Mohanty said the company has so far this fiscal invested ₹38,000 crore in equities, up from ₹23,300 crore, while in the entire FY24 the equity investment was ₹1.32 lakh crore.

And that the Corporation will at least match FY24 number this fiscal too. So far LIC has been a net buyer of equities this fiscal. New business premium income (individual) rose 13.67% to ₹11,892 crore, while the overall annual premium equivalent (APE) jumped 21.28% to ₹11,560 crore. Individual business non-par APE soared 166% to ₹1,615 crore, helping more than double the non-par share in overall product mix to 23.52% from 10.22% a year ago.

Biocon Q1 net profit zooms 550% to ₹660 cr

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

BIOCON on Thursday posted nearly 550% increase in its consolidated net profit to ₹660 crore in the June quarter. The company had reported a profit after tax of ₹101 crore in the same period last year.

"Biocon has reported consolidated revenues of ₹4,567 crore for Q1FY25, delivering a strong 30% YoY growth, with EBITDA growing 117% to ₹1,755 crore and a Net Profit of ₹660 crore. This strong performance was primarily on account of a one-time gain from the strategic collaboration between Biocon Biologics and Eris Lifesciences," said Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw, Executive Chairperson, Biocon and Biocon Biologics.

Disconnect resources of entity caught engaging in spam activities: TRAI

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

IN a bid to combat the rising menace of spam calls in the country, the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI) directed telecom service providers (TSPs) on Thursday to disconnect the telecom resources of any entity caught engaging in spam activities.

Under the new directive, entities found exploiting their SIP (Session Initiation Protocol) or PRI (Primary Rate Interface) lines for spam calls will be blacklisted by their TSP, and this information will be shared with other telecom operators to ensure comprehensive blacklisting across the industry up to two years. During this blacklisting period, no new telecom resources will be allocated to the entity by any TSP.

The decision was made during a meeting held on Thursday with the chief regulatory officers of Airtel, BSNL, Quadrant Televentures Limited (QTL), Reliance Jio, Tata Teleservices Limited, Vodafone Idea Limited, and V-CON Mobile & Infra Private Limited. However, TRAI noted that representatives from MTNL and Reliance Communications Limited were absent from the meeting.

In addition to these measures, starting 1 September 2024, messages containing URLs or APKs that are not pre-approved will be barred from delivery.

This move aims to prevent the spread of potentially harmful or unwanted content through unauthorised links. Furthermore, TRAI has mandated that TSPs complete the technical implementation of Entity and Telemarketer chain binding for message traceability by October 31, 2024. This measure is designed to ensure a transparent and traceable flow of messages, enhancing the ability to track and address spam activities effectively. "With effect from 1 September 2024, no message, containing URLs/ APKs that are not whitelisted, shall be allowed to be delivered," said TRAI in a press note. TRAI has underscored the urgency of these actions, emphasising the need for immediate and firm measures against spammers exploiting PRI/ SIP connections for unsolicited calls.

Council to decide GST rate on insurance: FM

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

FINANCE Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Thursday said the decision regarding the Goods and Services Tax (GST) on health and life insurance premiums rests solely with the GST Council. In the Rajya Sabha, she stated that the council should now take the lead on this issue, as all relevant stakeholders have already had their perspectives considered.

"...GST on medical insurance is a matter entirely in the realm of the GST Council. Not justifying this way or that way. Let the GST Council decide on medical insurance now that everyone has been heard on this," Sitharaman told the upper house of Parliament. The finance minister pointed out that none of the members advocating for a reduction in GST on medical and life insurance have formally approached their respective finance ministers to address the issue when they had the opportunity. She also noted that in the previous fiscal year, ₹12,264 crore collected from GST on life and medical insurance was allocated to the states.

The GST Council is a constitutional body that has made its decision based on its own judgment. However, labeling a decision made by a constitutional body as 'daylight robbery' is inappropriate, stated Sitharaman.

Toward the end of last month, Road Transport and Highways Minister Nitin Gadkari reached out to Sitharaman, requesting the removal of the 18% GST on life and medical insurance premiums. He described this tax as a burden on the uncertainties of life.

Relief for Byju's: US court rejects lender request

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

A US court has dismissed US-based loan agency GLAS Trust's application for a temporary restraining order that aimed at blocking edtech firm Byju's settlement with the BCCI. Judge Brendan Shannon of the Delaware Bankruptcy Court rejected GLAS' application. The judge expressed deep concern about being asked to interfere with proceedings in another country's judicial system, Byju's said on Thursday.

It said the court's decision affirmed that it has no jurisdiction over the BCCI to halt the settlement and recognised that granting GLAS' requested relief would be an extraordinary and unjustified measure. This ruling follows GLAS' unsuccessful attempt to convince the NCLAT in India to block the settlement, Byju's said.

French runner proposes with Oly pin

Rarely has an Olympic pin contained so much love. When French runner Alice Finot got down on one knee and proposed to her boyfriend after her Olympic steeplechase race — she finished fourth in 8 minutes, 58.67 seconds on Tuesday — she attached a 'Love is in Paris' pin on his shirt.

1st Indonesia won their 1st gold medal, other than badminton, in men's speed climbing

CHOPRA 1ST INDIVIDUAL INDIAN ATHLETE TO WIN A GOLD & A SILVER AT THE GAMES; NADEEM SETS NEW OLY RECORD

NEERAJ 89.45; SILVER, ARSHAD 92.97; GOLD

TOP THREE
Gold	Arshad Nadeem (Pakistan)	92.97m (OR)
Silver	Neeraj Chopra (India)	89.45m (SB)
Bronze	Anderson Peterson (Grenada)	88.54m

CONSISTENCY is Neeraj Chopra's thing. And he has used that plank to dominate javelin events at the highest levels for a few years. It's why a silver, at least right now, felt like a disappointment. One legal throw out of six seemed a little wayward by his standard. Yet, the 2021 Olympic and the reigning world champion is capable of astounding feats on the field.

Neeraj won India's fifth medal—silver here at the Olympics.

After fouling his first attempt, he needed courage to hurl the spear to a distance of 89.45m. He had already seen Pakistan's Arshad Nadeem, World silver-medallist in 2023 behind Neeraj's gold, set a new Olympic record with a monstrous world lead of 92.97m. After Neeraj fell just short of the 90m mark, he turned around to his coach with a gesture with suggested 'cool down, cool down'.

It is not easy with so much pressure. Not just defending his gold but chasing more history – no individual Indian had ever won two Olympic gold.

Freak show

Nadeem, Neeraj's friend and colleague, can be called a freak. A javelin thrower, who has an unusually short run up, has been struggling to acquire the right javelin to practice. While Neeraj had been practicing around the world and brushing shoulders with the elite, Arshad had been struggling with injury. Nadeem was born to a Punjabi Jat family in Pakistan's Punjab and is the third child among eight. Nadeem made his Olympic debut at Tokyo but he has been around the block a fair bit. The rivalry between him and Neeraj had been building for a while. Just before the final, Arshad wished his elder peer luck.

As the Paris evening sky brimmed with eager anticipation, much like the romantic stories that dot the city, the expectation was that Neeraj would perform another miracle. The expectation of a major medal was lingering in the air. It was slightly windy outside the stadium, but ideal for big throws with the javelin inside.

The seats of the colossal 80,000-capacity Stade de France was filled to the brim. The setting demanded it. After all, this is the Olympics. For Neeraj though, the cheers weren't limited to those emerging from within the walls of this vibrant thousand decibel cauldron. The 1.4 billion back home too would have joined the celebration.

Neeraj walked out to the stadium along with his spears, the projectiles that have fetched him numerous medals in the last three years after the Olympic gold in Tokyo. In 2019, when the world stopped believing in Neeraj, he stepped back, joined hands with coach Klaus Bartonietz, known for his cool head, and a physio Ishaan Marwah. The journey had been one scripted in the heaven. The company grew on them. Separation anxiety, when the season ended, used to trouble them. The three travelled the world, creating paeans of endearing feats. The silver is endearing too.

PIC AFP

Neeraj has devoted the season to the Olympics. He even skipped a few international events in Europe to remain fresh for this moment of history. His adductor had been troubling him for quite some time now. Though it is not an issue right now, he did not want to risk the last two months. He did not want his Olympic dream to go up in smoke. Klaus is in his final leg and may not continue with Neeraj. But we will have to wait and see.

He has already been living his dream but one tick is missing from his illustrious career – the 90m. He wanted to achieve this in 2024 but the season was not to his liking. He had a few niggles here and there and did not compete in as many international competitions as he did last year. This year the entire focus was on the Olympics. The silver is a big deal.

PR Sreejesh, who played his last match for India, is cheered on by his teamates after winning the bronze on Thursday | AP

Fairytale finish for India's wall

INDRANEEL DAS @Paris

HE calls this space his home — the 17-by-12 feet rectangle between the posts and the turf in front. His life revolved around this space over two decades. Just before the game, PR Sreejesh went out onto the turf in the north-eastern suburbs of Paris. He spent some time in that happy space contemplating the life that has past and the future that lies in front. Nostalgic moments flashed by as he got ready to play the last match of his career. And it was a happy ending.

On Thursday at the Yves du Manoir Stadium in Colombes, Sreejesh entered a select group of hockey players to have won two consecutive medals for the country. India won 2-1 in the play-off. It ended with Sreejesh clearing the ball from the goal in the last seconds. The celebrations inside the stadium ensued. It went on and on and Sreejesh became the central figure. The wan who is walking into the sunset. The 36-year-old was philosophical while describing his feeling when he went out there just before the game. He said he didn't know anything about the world beyond that rectangle. The ground has been his home for 24 years and said "I was thinking how things will be outside this place. I never lived a life outside the field and I didn't know what's going to happen next."

Minutes before the play-off, Sreejesh made an emotional post about his last game for India on X (formerly twitter). He wanted to recollect the moment he put on those pads, the day he entered the India camp for the first time back in 2002 (junior team). "Then Harmanpreet told me the dialogue in the Milkha Singh movie. Sree bhai koi puchega, aapka aakhri match hai, to hum bolega khelegi bhi waise. And then the team did it."It is indeed one hell of a ride.

HOCKEY MEDALS
Gold	1928, 1932, 1936, 1948, 1952, 1956, 1964, 1980
Silver	1960
Bronze	1968, 1972, 2021, 2024

1972 India have now won back-to-back Olympic medals for the first time since 1972

Road to bronze
India	3-2	New Zealand
India	1-1	Argentina
India	2-0	Ireland
India	1-2	Belgium
India	3-2	Australia
QF bt Great Britain 1-1 (4-2 in a shootout)
SF lost to Germany 2-3
Bronze play-off bt Spain 2-1

Born in Kizhakkambalam village, in the Ernakulam district of Kerala where hockey is not the first love, it's remarkable how Sreejesh made it into the national team. His career spanned 20 years including the junior national team and 18 years in the senior national team. Though the coach Craig Fulton and captain Harmanpreet Singh wanted him to reconsider his decision, Sreejesh said he had already made up his mind. "I always remember one of my coach's words. He told me "you always retire when people should say why retire now instead of why not retire?"

So much has been the emotional connection with the posts that they have turned into his alter-ego, Sreejesh's other self. He speaks with them. Chats with them and vents anger at them. "Things have changed after I turned into a super senior," he said after the game. "I used to be a very aggressive keeper. I used to swear at my teammates, use expletives to spur them on. Then the junior set of players came in. The coach told me that the juniors might get demotivated if I swear at them." With age, he matured. Sreejesh found a perfect solution. He started talking to the post. "I started swearing at them and gradually I started speaking with them," he smiled. "I sing to them. Just like a girlfriend."

Sreejesh said state of hockey is very healthy. He was fortunate to have been part of the teams that won two bronze medals. They have given belief to the younger players. "They should feel fortunate that we have won a medal after years of toil," he said. "The youngsters have walked into the team and won a medal. They will not know about how hard it had been for us to win a medal."

Indian hockey is breathing life. It has turned into a symbol of triumph. But for India, the space between the goal post will no longer look the same without Sreejesh. But the legacy he is living will always remain in our hearts.

Stylistic change that paved way for India's hockey glory at Paris Games

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@Chennai

AFTER that utterly chaotic and ultimately fateful loss to New Zealand on penalties at the World Cup in India last year (3-3 after regulation time), something had to change.

Sure, under Graham Reid, the side had broken a four-decades long Olympic drought but playing an ultra-fast, attacking brand of hockey added an additional layer of jeopardy. While that sort of attacking DNA suited India, they needed more security at the back. Hockey, unlike football, sees a lot of goals scored. However, like football, most champions share one common trait. The most successful nations are teams who concede the least number of goals. In recent times in men's hockey, the likes of Belgium and Germany have comfortably won global titles while keeping average goals conceded to below 2.

In Craig Fulton's first press conference after he was appointed as coach of the men's team, he shocked the watching journalists when he described his coaching philosophy as 'defend to win'. "I would like to have our defensive structures in place because that's the first step of attacking." His big two tests in 2023 were conquered without a lot of jeopardy. The Asian Champions Trophy and the Asian Games. With all due respect to the Asian games, India are the current top dogs and these titles were bare minimum. From the time the team won the Asiad gold till the time they landed in Paris a few weeks ago, this stylistic shift has been the biggest talking point in the men's game. Over eight games — including a very tight and, in the end, a very rewarding 60 minutes against Spain in the bronze medal match — you kind of get Fulton's point.

In a sporting parlance, the team management replaced chaos for control. Here's a number to explain how it has helped the team immeasurably. In the eight matches they played in Paris, they conceded 12 goals. Under Reid, they let in 23 on the way to their bronze. They did win bronze but that was ultimately an unsustainable way of playing the game, especially in high-stakes tournaments. In 2016, they let in 12 but in two fewer games. At 2012, they conceded 18 in the group stages alone... you get the drift, this team's and Fulton's short-term legacy is in making the team ultra secure at the back. That has, inarguably contributed to consecutive bronze medals, a first for the side since 1972.

India coach Craig Fulton | HI

Conceding 12 goals over an entire tournament is just one part of the equation. Their defensive structures have been outstanding, there has been a sense of calm. Even when they been in arrears, their usually frenetic, almost schizophrenic brand of hockey has been a welcome absence. In the games against New Zealand, Argentina, Belgium and even against Germany in the semifinals, they had patience and faith and rarely veered away from maintaining structure.

The other facet of their defensive play in Paris has been displayed in games like Australia and Great Britain. Against the latter, they rejigged personnel following the red card to Amit Rohidas. But even with 10 men, Great Britain didn't conjure enough clear-cut chances on target. Then, perhaps, it's not at all ironical how the final quarter against Spain played itself out. After largely controlling the game, the Iberians threw everything in the last few minutes as they chased an equaliser. India ended up conceding a few penalty corners at the end but it never looked like they were in any real danger of losing that advantage. Rewind back the mind to that bronze medal match against Germany in Tokyo. After Germany cranked up the pressure, PR Sreejesh saved a penalty corner with mere seconds remaining to rubberstamp a 5-4 win.

Three years later, Sreejesh, in his final match for India, again had a big role. But that was the only similarity between 2021 and 2024, apart from colour of the medal.

In that same press conference in 2023, Fulton added that he was a 'very forward, attacking coach' but 'I also like to do a very solid defensive play'.

It's what gave India it's 13th hockey medal.

Wrestler Aman to fight for bronze, Anshu out

India's Aman Sehrawat (R) lost to Japan's Rei Higuchi in semifinal | AFP

INDIAN wrestler Aman Sehrawat lost his 57kg semifinal bout against top seed Rei Higuchi of Japan (10-0) by technical superiority on Thursday. Now he will face the winner of one of the two repechage rounds in the bronze medal round on Friday. The 21-year-old Indian, who is seeded fifth, was no match to the Japanese wrestler, as he lost the bout in the first period.

Earlier, Aman demolished former world champion Zelimkhan Abakarov of Albania by technical superiority to seal a place in the semifinal. Aman ensured himself a quarterfinal berth with a dominating performance against North Macedonian rival Vladimir Egorov in the opening bout. He had won the contest by technical superiority (10-0) as well.

Meanwhile, Anshu Malik's Olympic dream got over after the wrestler against whom she lost in the opening round was defeated in the semifinal. Anshu lost 2-7 to USA's Helen Louise Maroulis. The American grappler then lost her semifinal bout to Tsugumi Sakurai.

Vinesh bids adieu to wrestling

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chennai

A DAY after she was disqualified from 50kg final of the 2024 Paris Olympics, champion wrestler Vinesh Phogat announced her retirement from international wrestling on Thursday. "Ma, wrestling has won, I have lost. Please forgive me, your dreams and my courage, everything is broken," she posted on her social media accounts addressing her mother Premlata. "I don't have any more strength now. Goodbye wrestling 2001-2024. I shall be indebted to you all. Forgive (me)," added the two-time World Championship medallist.

Vinesh was disqualified as she was found 100 grams overweight during the second weigh-in on Wednesday. She was scheduled to take on USA's Sarah Ann Hildebrandt in the evening before the issue rendered her ineligible. Cuban wrestler Yusneylys Guzman Lopez, who lost to Vinesh in the semifinals, replaced her in the final against Sarah. Hildebrandt won the final to claim gold. Vinesh then appealed against her disqualification in the Court of Arbitration for Sports (CAS), demanding that she be awarded a joint silver medal. An ad-hoc division of CAS is expected to take up her appeal on Thursday night.

Vinesh had scripted history by becoming the first Indian woman wrestler to reach the gold medal bout at the Olympics. The Paris Games was her third Olympics. She had to be stretchered off the mat after suffering a career-threatening anterior cruciate ligament tear in her quarterfinal bout on her debut at the 2016 Rio Olympics. She then lost the quarterfinal bout at the 2020 Tokyo Games in 2021. For the majority of the past year, she had been the face of the protests against former Wrestling Federation of India president Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh, who was accused of sexual harassment.
